As if you didn't know

Federal study cites loss in taxpayer spending power

WASHINGTON (AP) — If your salary is just keeping up with inflation, your spending power actually isn't keeping pace because federal taxes take bigger and bigger bites of your earnings.

That is the conclusion of a new government study which notes that income tends to rise to keep up with inflation. But the bad news is that taxpayers are moved to constantly higher tax brackets while, at the same time, the inflation erodes the real value of tax exemptions, credits and standard deductions.

The study said this problem may continue to plague American taxpayers through 1981 if there is no change in tax law and if inflation grows at an annual rate of 5 to 6 per cent between 1977-81 as forecast by the Congressional Budget Office and the executive branch.

The report by the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations recommends changes in federal and state tax laws to soften this impact. One solution set forth is to tie the amounts allowed for personal exemptions, the standard deduction and some credits directly to each year's rise in the Consumer Price Index, the inflation indicator.

As inflation rose, so would those tax return items that lower a person's taxes.

Similar proposals have been made by a number of congressmen and senators. Several countries, including France, the Netherlands and, since 1974, Canada, already are using this type of a tax system.

The commission said that such a revision of U.S. law, known as indexing, would work to wipe out any unintended tax increase caused by heavier than normal inflation.

The report said the country since 1972 has been experiencing an average annual inflation rate of 9.6 per cent, "a clear departure from the historically mild 2-3 per cent for the U.S. since 1950." The rate for 1976 was around 6 per cent.

The report gave this example of how inflation distorts income taxes. A married couple with two children, who file jointly, have an income of $10,000 and take the standard deduction, had a 1975 federal tax bill of $709.

Assuming an annual 7 per cent inflation rate and that the couple's income grew to keep pace, the couple's 1978 income will go up 22.5 per cent to $12,250, but their tax will go up 58.7 per cent to $1,125.

In 1980, with income up 40.3 per cent, their tax bill would be $1,433, an increase of 102 per cent from 1975.

L.A. scores Expo 81 report

Council's criticism catches local officials by surprise

Criticism of a proposal to use the Ontario Motor Speedway (OMS) as a site for a world's fair in 1981 has been unanimously endorsed by the Los Angeles City Council.

The council's action came Wednesday in reaction to a draft environmental impact statement (EIS) compiled by the U.S. Department of Commerce. This department already has endorsed the Ontario plan, set forth by Expo 81 Corp.

Richard M. Pittenger, president of the Expo 81 Corp., said the Los Angeles City Council, by adopting the State, County and Federal Affairs Committee report, has attacked the preliminary environmental impact study draft prepared by the U. S. Department of Commerce.

"We (Expo 81) will be doing a complete environmental impact study final report that will respond to every objection raised in the report.

"We were not asked to comment on this, nor to give the full facts concerning the situation," charged Pittenger.

The report voted on by Los Angeles City Council suggested that the federal EIS "overlooked" such matters as the "residual use potential" for the proposed 1,000 to 1,500 residential units that would be needed to create a "new city" at the Ontario site.

The critical report which the council endorsed was prepared by its State, County and Federal Affairs Committee, which had sought reaction from several city departments.

That local report suggested that the proposed exposition might have adverse effects on the Ontario International Airport, which is operated by the Los Angeles Department of Airports.

The report estimated that costs of building the exposition would be $285 million, of which $163 million would be payroll.

"Overall," the planning department report said, "the federal EIS proves that the Ontario raceway Expo has no relation to the needs, the potential or the heritage of Los Angeles, and is only using the name and Bicentennial date of this city for promotional purposes."

WARM WELCOME...TEARFUL FAREWELL

President Ford stands at the podium of the House chamber Wednesday night as he waits for applause to subside before giving his third and final "State of the Union" address. Emotion caught up with the President after he finished speech, lower photo.

Ice choking rivers

Midwest shivers under bitter new cold wave

From Wire Services

The latest in a string of storms today spread snow, sleet and freezing rain across the winter-locked midlands, still struggling to throw off the shackles of the last one.

Bitter cold gripped the eastern third of the nation from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic.

The storm dumped locally heavy snows on Missouri and a freezing concoction of rain and sleet from the central plains to the middle Mississippi Valley. Winter storm warnings and watches were posted eastward to the Appalachians.

Accumulating ice felled utility lines and poles in Kansas City, Kan. The Kansas Highway Patrol reported an outbreak of traffic accidents and at least one fatality. Rush hour traffic snarls developed in Wisconsin.

In Indiana, where up to 22 inches of snow left by preceeding storms still kept schools closed in many communities, a National Weather Service forecaster said: "Here we go again."

The mercury tumbled to a record 17 below zero at Alpena, Mich. Other record lows included 14 below at Columbus, Ohio, and Fort Wayne, Ind., 10 below at Pittsburgh and 8 below at Evansville, Ind.

Ice has formed "from bank to bank," over many areas of the Ohio, says the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, and there's a good chance the river, one of the top five navigable waterways in the world, will freeze over for the first time in almost 30 years.

On the Mississippi, the Corps and the Coast Guard have urged that a 180-mile stretch between St. Louis and Cairo, Ill., be closed to barge traffic because of heavy ice and low water.

The Coast Guard said 10 ships ran aground between St. Louis and Cairo on Monday.

Ford leaves inspiring echo in last address

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only at the finish did Gerald Ford's voice falter.

He was tripped by his memories.

"In this chamber, along with some of you, I have experienced many of the highlights of my life. It was here that I stood 28 years ago with my freshman colleagues as Speaker Sam Rayburn administered the oath ... it was here we waged many a lively battle, won some, lost some, but always remaining friends.

"It was here surrounded by such friends that the distinguished chief justice swore me in as vice president on Dec. 6, 1973. It was here I returned eight months later as President to ask you not for a honeymoon, but a good marriage."

There never was any honeymoon and the marriage, a rocky one, came unglued at the ballot box. Gerald Ford, member of the House of Representatives for 25 years, vice president of the United States for eight months, President for nearly 30 months, was saying goodbye.

The Constitution commands the President to "give to the Congress information on the state of the union and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient."

The information Ford gave, not only to the Congress but to the nation, was that the union is in good shape — "a more perfect union than when my stewardship began."

And among the measures he recommended: "the Constitution is the bedrock of all our freedoms; guard and cherish it; keep honor and order in your own house and the Republic will endure."

As he drove onto the Capitol grounds, the 38th President of the United States couldn't help but notice the stands built for the inauguration of the 39th.

He spoke of the coming change with grace.

"The people have spoken; they have chosen a new President and a new Congress to work their will." And he wished Jimmy Carter "the very best in all that is good for our country."

Carter, meanwhile, was at Blair House talking over defense matters with his new national security adviser. He, too, could see stands, built for the inaugural parade in front of the White House.

The transition, smooth all the way, was nearly done. Ford, in the Capitol, was saying his farewell eight days early.

Panel OKs Brown

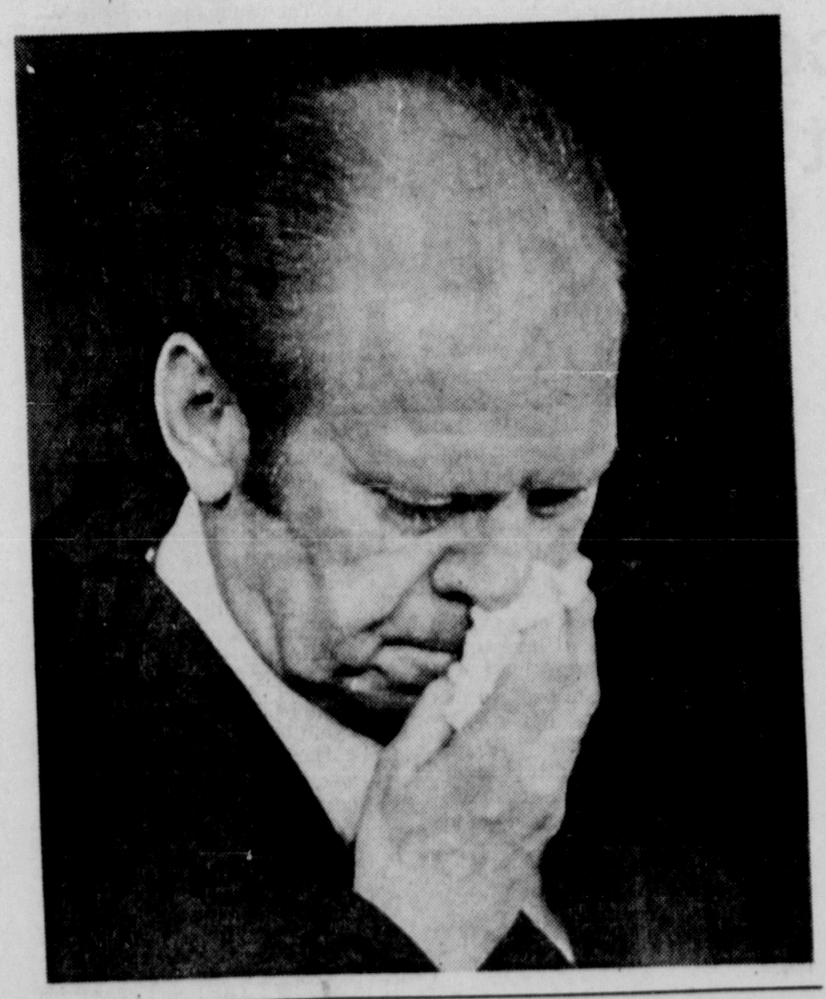

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harold Brown, who headed the Air Force at the height of the Vietnam war, was approved by the Senate Armed Services Committee today to be secretary of defense.

The committee's unanimous vote sent the nomination to the full Senate, which is expected to overwhelmingly confirm Brown after President-elect Carter takes office on Jan. 20.

The committee also recommended confirmation of Charles W. Duncan Jr., a Houston millionaire, as deputy secretary, the No. 2 position in the Pentagon.

U.S. protest angers French

PARIS (AP) — The French government protested today against official U.S. criticism of its release of Palestinian leader Abu Daoud, accused of commanding the terrorist attack on Israeli athletes at the 1972 Munich Olympics.

The Foreign Ministry called in U.S. Charge d'Affaires Samuel Gammon to tell him that the criticism, expressed on Tuesday by a State Department spokesman, "constituted inadmissible comment on the acts of French courts."

In Tel Aviv, Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon said French-Israeli relations had reached a crisis point over Daoud's release, but that Israel was not intending to break off diplomatic relations with France.

Kissinger will get continued protection

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Secret Service will go on protecting Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger after he leaves office.

A State Department spokesman said Wednesday that President Ford, "based on assessments he has received from the Secret Service on continued threats," ordered the post-retirement protection for Kissinger.

...President's finest hour

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even to those in Congress who had fought him, it was Gerald Ford's finest hour. To his backers, it was a reminder of what might have been.

Following the President's farewell State of the Union address Wednesday night, there was not a discouraging word from the lawmakers, many of whom had fought the 38th President on policy issues.

House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Tex., apparently spoke for the bulk of his colleagues in calling the speech "an appropriate valedictory of a thoughtful, good and decent man."

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., said that "if he had made that speech during the campaign, he would have won the election."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., agreed: "If he had been that forceful during the campaign, he would have been better off."

There was widespread approval of Ford's call for continued attention to improved military strength and a warning against cutbacks in weapons and defense spending.

Senate Republican Leader Howard H. Baker of Tennessee, who earlier in the day had attended a congressional leadership meeting to discuss defense policy with President-elect Carter, said he is heartened by what he saw as considerable similarity between what he heard from Ford and his successor.

Ford's admonition on national security "was the highest responsibility he could discharge," said Baker. "He was heard and understood by the Congress and I think it will have an effect."

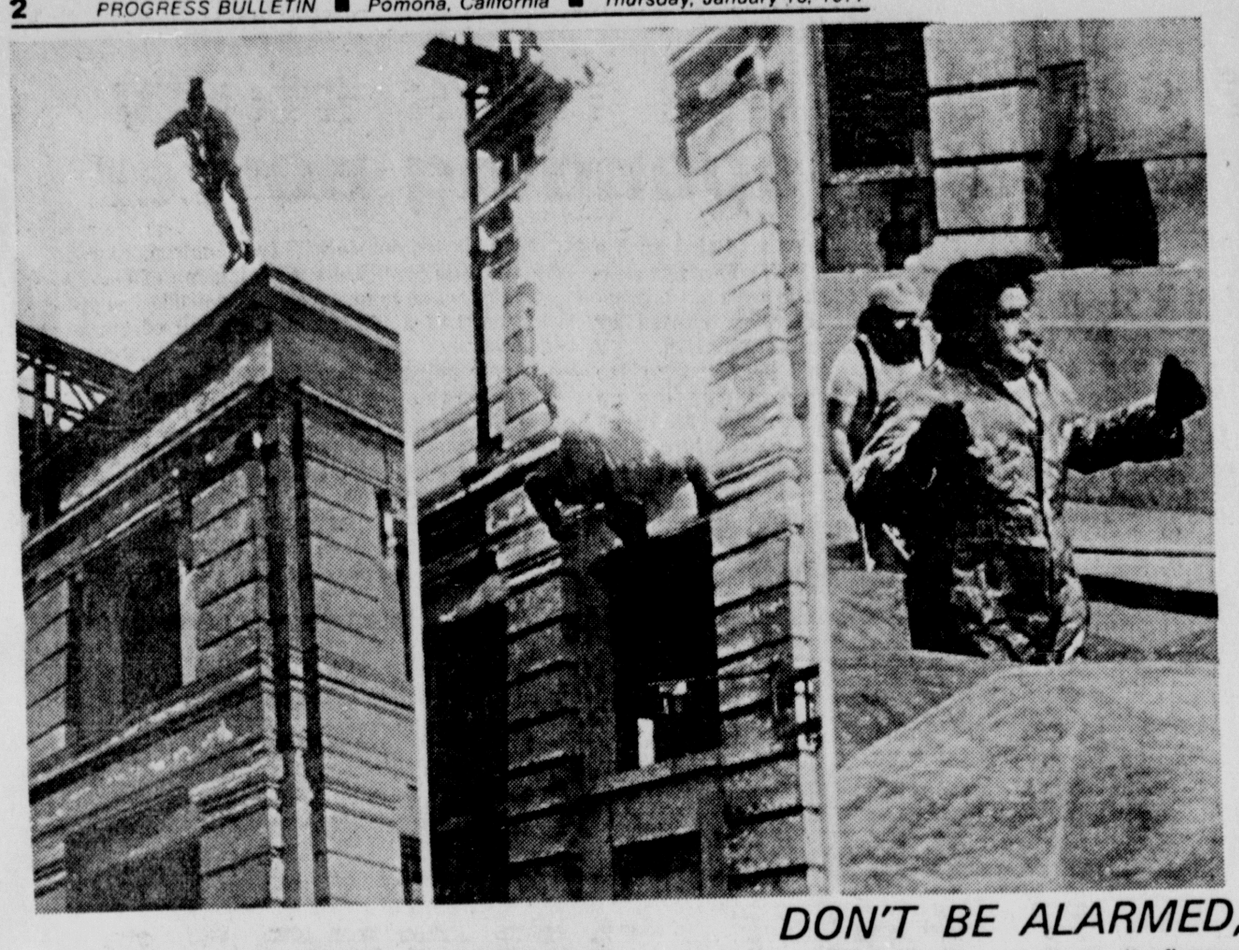

The President even got some nods of approval when he criticized the growing cost of running the Congress. "He ought to know — he's one of us," said Baker of the man who spent 25 years in the House.

Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., was even kinder than most to his old colleague, comparing the Ford address to George Washington's farewell because "it set forth principles that are to guide us."

House Republican Leader John Rhodes of Arizona called the speech a "benchmark." Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said it was well done and predicted Ford "will be remembered for bringing the country back together again."

Sen. Daniel P. Moynihan, D-N.Y., who worked under Ford as United Nations ambassador, termed it "a lovely speech by a great man."

"It is a time to be happy and proud that we had Gerald Ford for president," said Moynihan.

DON'T BE ALARMED, IT'S JUST A STUNT

A "first" in the daredevil world of stuntman took place recently in Hollywood as television stuntman Dick Ziker, his asbestos suit aflame plunges down six stories onto an air bag and comes up smiling (in sequence at left). Shown getting ready to jump (right), Ziker was taking part in filming of Stuntmen's Competition and Award show to be televised later this month.

School integration plans get mixed reactions

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Reaction to proposed integration guidelines for Los Angeles schools has been swift, although mixed and — in at least one instance — violent.

School board member Richard Ferraro said Wednesday that busing 62,000 elementary students to balance school racial populations next year would cost $40 million, and that would have to be taken from existing educational funds in the district's $1. 3 billion yearly budget.

Two top officials of the local National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) said the citizens committee proposal presented to the school board Monday did not go far enough towards providing racial balance, although some critics say it goes too far.

The NAACP officials said the proposal would only transfer elementary students in the first year and they vowed to go to court to gain total racial balance of the 600,000-pupil school system all at once.

A fistfight broke out near the board room Monday as school district trustees finally heard the plan, which has been about six months in preparation. Seven people were arrested after the altercation between pro and anti-racial balance demonstrators.

The board will give its planning staff instructions next Monday on which phases of the integration proposal it favors.

"It would not improve the quality of education," Ferraro told the Los Angeles Breakfast Club on Wednesday. "The students would have to be bused 38 miles each way, which would take a least an hour. There would be difficulty in controlling the actions of the students in the buses, particularly the elementary children."

Ferraro said the first phase of the racial balancing program would cost $40 million each year to implement. "This would be just the initial cost. Then when it would be necessary to bus the junior and senior high school students in the next two years the cost would go up tremendously," he said. "There's no $40 million in the budget for buses."

Shel Erlich, a district spokesman, said the staff has not come up with any figures on how much the citizens committee program would cost because the board may make changes in it Monday.

"It's not clear yet whether 62,000 children would have to be bused," he said. "We could make 62,000 reassignments by pairing up adjacent elementary schools, changing boundary lines of attendance districts. We may not have to buy more buses, we could lease some and contract some."

Erlich said there is no indication the district will get any new money next year to pay for desegregation. He said, "We have applied to the U.S. Office of Education for $24 million in aid to implement an integration plan, but buses are not in that."

Erlich said he expected it would take the staff five or six weeks to come up with the figures to implement whatever proposal the board decides it wants to offer to the Superior Court under a suit filed in 1963 by the American Civil Liberties Union.

The late Judge Alfred Gitelson ruled in that 1971 case that the school district was segregated. Judge Parks Stillwell will decide what to do about it, perhaps next March, Erlich said.

Expo contract changes not totally accepted

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The ball has been bounced back to the Expo 81 Corp.

The Ontario Motor Speedway Corp. board accepted only part of the suggested changes in a contractual agreement between the non-profit organization, city and Expo 81 Corp. late Wednesday afternoon.

At a Jan. 4 City Council meeting, attorneys for Expo 81 Corp. reported that an executive committee of their board had accepted all recommended changes in the agreement except for one paragraph detailing the reversionary rights of the city. Attorney Richard Hodge said the Expo group wanted to revert back to the legal language originally described in the first agreement signed Nov. 5, 1975.

Although this was acceptable by the OMS board, the five men refused to accept changes in another paragraph pertaining to the city's power of approval on any transfer of title or lien on the speedway. Two sentences were added to this paragraph, with the recommendation of City Atty. Samuel Crowe, declaring that in determining the necessity of a lien or transfer of title, the OMS board and Ontario City Council need not consider the financial needs of Expo 81.

The second sentence pointed out that "nothing contained elsewhere in this agreement shall limit the rights and powers reserved to the city in this paragraph."

The modifications were unanimously accepted by OMS directors Charles Cummins, Charles Milhiser, Robert Jensen, George Mim Mack and Frank Colella.

The quintet did not address the issue of Expo 81 Corp. contracting with Allen and Co. of New York for a $7 million loan to purchase the necessary bonds for the speedway. The matter of the speedway serving as collateral on the bonding company loan was skirted at this time.

Crowe said that issue will be dealt with if and when a contract is actually presented to the city.

Hodge had reported at the Jan. 4 council meeting that representatives of Allen and Co. had said they had no objection to the city's reversionary rights on the speedway. Hodge or his attorney-partner, John Skoog, are scheduled to present a letter confirming that from the bonding company executives at the Tuesday night council meeting.

The OMS board action followed a 1½ hour legal session with Crowe. It was assumed that the primary topic of discussion was the details of a memo from Crowe to the speedway board and City Council.

The memo, for the most part, gave a historical perspective on the contractual agreement between the three entities. However, parts of it differed in Crowe's summary of what Expo 81 Corp. attorneys said in public sessions with the council, and what was actually said.

According to Crowe's memo, the Expo representative, when advised at the Nov. 16, 1976 council meeting that the city objected to a first trust deed being placed on the speedway by Allen and Co., "indicated it (the corporation) would obtain other financing."

Skoog did not say that the promoters would abandon the contract with Allen and Co., but that the matter would be re-negotiated if possible and something could be worked out that was agreeable to the three parties of the agreement.

Crowe's memo also asserted that the exposition group is claiming it has the right to transfer title of the speedway without the city's approval. However, Skoog and Hodge on numerous occasions have stated that any contractual agreement made by Expo 81 Corp. on such matters must be approved by the city and that the Expo 81 Corp. cannot act independently of the city.

Mayor Paul Treadway attended the OMS board meeting. He said he felt that the council would go along with the OMS action.

"The speedway board has a closer relationship to the bondholders than we have," Treadway said. "Their capacity here in overseeing the total operation is very important. I think the city attorney's advice to them was good advice in protecting the rights of all involved in the speedway."

The final decision of the contract rests now with the Expo 81 Corp. board of directors.

Walnut council OKs joint meeting

By PHYLLIS CANNON
Asst. City Editor

Walnut City Council Wednesday night approved a joint meeting with the planning commission Feb. 4 at 7:30 p.m. to talk with consultants preparing Walnut's general plan.

City Engineer Frank Salfingere presented council members a report on tentative general plan goals and objectives, which was received for study.

The council directed staff to meet with the parks and recreation department to "explore the idea" of holding a city celebration and selecting a city motto, as the department had suggested.

On the recommendation of City Attorney Samuel Siegel, the council adopted a resolution bringing City of Walnut into "conformance" with new state environmental impact report guidelines.

In unanimous actions, the council paid city bills amounting to $45,232.34; transferred storm drains at three locations in the Larwin tract to the Los Angeles County Flood Control District for future operation, maintenance, repair and improvement; and agreed to extend for another year contractural law enforcement services from the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department for Mt. San Antonio College.

City Manager Vern Lawson told council that by Jan. 30 Southern California Edison Co. would have an in-depth report on the financial status of utilities on La Puente Road.

Councilman Joe Hahn recommended that the staff obtain the report from Edison on the fund status and "clarify any future encumbrances" on the project.

Council voted unanimously to authorize staff to invest city monies in the Local Agency Investment Fund which, it was explained, will allow City of Walnut to pool surplus funds with the state and earn a higher rate of interest.

On the recommendation of Salfingere, council unanimously approved the final map for the six-lot tract submitted by Bowen & Barthelemy on Grand Avenue.

Council agreed to meet with Sen. Bill Campbell, R-33rd Dist., Hacienda Heights, on Jan. 28 for lunch.

L.A. Zoo alligator hurt again

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the second time in two weeks, Methuselah has been hit in the eye with a metal pipe. The shock of the attacks, plus the seriousness of his latest injury, may cost the old alligator at the Los Angeles Zoo his life.

According to zoo officials, Methuselah was just lying there in a pool of water, as alligators do, when a teen-age zoo visitor decided he'd like to see more action.

The young man reportedly fetched a five-foot metal pipe used to turn on water valves and jabbed Methuselah in the left eye, right where the leathery old gent had been hit the week before by an unknown assailant.

Then the alligator mugger threw the pipe at Methuselah, hitting him again, whereupon a bystander who couldn't stand it any more made a citizen's arrest.

The bystander's name was being withheld by police, but they report 19-year-old Jorge Cardenas was booked on a misdemeanor charge of cruely to animals. He is being held on $500 bond.

Methuselah has been tranquilized and is still lying in his pool. Zoo Dr. Warren Thomas said Methuselah may lose his eye, maybe even his life.

There was no word on whether there would be an operation.

Planes collide near Riverside

RIVERSIDE (AP) — Federal investigators are looking into a mid-air plane collision at Flabob airport that killed one pilot but left the other only scratched.

Two private airplanes, one taking off and one landing at the airport near Riverside, collided at about 900 feet and went down in an open field, according to C. J. Tamplin, an operations investigator for the Federal Aviation Administration.

Robert Joseph Warner, 46, of Hemet was killed in his Cessna 120. Eugene Swanhart, 65, of Rubidoux was landing his Cessna 140 when the crash occurred, said Tamplin. Swanhart stayed with his plane until it hit the ground, then got out and began walking around, suffering only superficial injuries.

Tamplin attributed Swanhart's survival to "sheer luck."

There was no fire but both planes were destroyed. There were no passengers in either craft and visibility was estimated at more than 30 miles.

Part of Civil Rights Act declared unconstitutional

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A judge has declared unconstitutional a part of the 1964 Civil Rights Act which requires employers to make "reasonable" efforts to respect worker needs based on religious preferences.

U.S. District Court Judge Manuel Real ruled the section violated the First Amendment separation of church and state. Employers and unions had argued that meeting the religious tenets of some employes discriminates against those who are not religious.

Although Real is believed to be the first judge in the nation to hold the section unconstitutional, his decision is not binding on other federal courts or other judges.

The question of how far an employer must go to meet workers' religious-based needs is currently before the U.S. Supreme Court in another case.

The case involved Kenneth Yott, who contended his religious beliefs prevented him from paying dues to his union local. He worked at North American Rockwell Corp. for 21 years before being fired in 1969 after union membership was required for employment.

The judge also ruled in the Yott case that the plaintiff has the burden of proving that "he has offered the employer an accommodation which is acceptable to him."

Andy Williams weeps as Claudine tells story

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — With ex-husband Andy Williams weeping in a hushed courtroom, Claudine Longet told jurors that her lover cried, "Claudine! Claudine! Claudine!" as he fell dying to the bathroom floor after a gun went off accidentally in her hands.

Williams, a television and recording star, wiped his tears with a pink tissue Wednesday as Miss Longet—holding the fatal pistol as she spoke—described how champion skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich died last March 21 in the $250,000 Rocky Mountain chalet they shared.

"Spider called my name three times, and he sort of slid down, and I told him I would call the hospital, not to move," Miss Longet testified, biting her lips to hold back tears.

Both defense and prosecution said they expected the reckless manslaughter charge against the 35-year-old entertainer to go to the jury today or Friday. If convicted, she faces a maximum 10 years in jail and $30,000 fine.

The prosecution doesn't claim she intended to shoot Sabich, but says she was criminally reckless in handling the gun.

The tiny state district courtroom was packed for the diminutive, dark-haired defendant's testimony. At one point, spectators peering over library shelves in the rear of the room were asked not to stand on law books to watch her.

"I saw he was sort of fainting," Miss Longet said. "So I tried to give him mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, but I didn't know how."

Sabich died of a single bullet wound in the stomach from a .22-caliber pistol modeled after the German Luger.

Miss Longet said she had asked Sabich how to use the gun because she was frightened for the safety of her three children by Williams, who lived with her and Sabich.

"I was holding it with both hands," Miss Longet said, gingerly taking the pistol from a defense attorney and holding it flat between her palms.

It was then she began crying. She had not held the gun since the night Sabich died.

"I raised the gun, and I said, 'When that lever is on the red spot, is it safe, it won't fire?'

The dozen jurors leaned forward to hear the soft-spoken defendant, whose accent still shows strong traces of her native France.

"He said, 'Yes, it won't fire. You've got it. You have it,' or something like that ... I went back to holding it, and it just went off ...

During cross-examination, prosecutor Ashley Anderson questioned Miss Longet closely about the testimony of two law enforcement officers.

They said Miss Longet told them at the hospital where Sabich was rushed the night of the shooting that she "playfully pointed the gun at (Sabich) and she gestured at him, saying, 'Bang bang.'"

Anderson asked, "You did not jokingly point the gun and say 'bang bang' and it went off?"

"I wouldn't joke with guns," Miss Longet quickly replied.

Anderson asked her to hold the weapon twice, then asked, "Are you positive your hand was not on the trigger?"

"I had my hand on the trigger," Miss Longet answered.

Anderson repeated, "Your hand was on the trigger when you raised it?"

"I have to assume it was" because the gun fired, she said, adding later, "I did not raise my hand with my finger on the trigger ..."

A ballistics expert testified for the prosecution that the safety device didn't work, but the trigger had to be pulled for the gun to fire. Miss Longet's mention of the "red spot" referred to the safety.

Defense attorney Charles V. Weedman asked his client about her affair with Sabich, who would have been 32 this week. He had captured the world ski title in 1971 and 1972.

"Spider and I loved each other very much," Miss Longet said. "I think we were the very best of friends."

Williams, his bright blue eyes red-rimmed from crying, began staring at the courtroom's rust carpet. He and Miss Longet were divorced two years ago but still are friends.

He steadfastly defended her character when testifying earlier for the prosecution, then the defense.

The sad-eyed Miss Longet admitted she and Sabich sometimes had "small arguments ... But above all, we were the very best of friends. We loved each other very much."

Anderson, trying to prove that the affair had soured, traced Sabich's downfall on the pro skiing circuit, then asked, "Isn't it a fact he was sometimes very depressed, sullen and wouldn't talk with you?"

"Of course," Miss Longet answered.

"He would get depressed with you?" the prosecutor suggested.

"He would get depressed with himself," Miss Longet countered.

"Isn't it a fact, Miss Longet, you were asked to move out?" he asked.

The defense immediately objected, and the jury was ushered out.

Anderson referred to Miss Longet's statement at a preliminary hearing that she and Sabich had decided before he died she would move out by "mutual agreement."

"I have a witness that is prepared to testify he had a $100 bet with Spider Sabich that Miss Longet would be out by April 1," Anderson said.

But District Court Judge George E. Lohr instructed jurors to disregard the question as prejudicial.

Earlier Wednesday, pro skiier William "Billy" Kidd, who introduced Miss Longet and Sabich, said they had "an ideal relationship."

Emotional farewell to Congress

Looks back on days in office with pride

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pausing briefly in its preparations for the administration of Jimmy Carter, Congress heard "an old friend," President Ford, bid an emotional farewell in a State of the Union address that looked back with pride and forward with hope and prayer.

"Touching ... a nice eulogy ... a good swan song," were the comments from members of Congress, Democrats and Republicans alike, at the conclusion of Ford's Wednesday night address.

Throughout the day, delegations from Congress held meetings with Carter, who will be sworn in as president a week from today.

The inaugural stand on which Carter will take the oath of office stood in the frigid night outside the Capitol, an added reminder of the transition underway since the election result became certain on Nov. 3.

Acknowledging that "the people have spoken," and the new president would outline his program in his inaugural address, Ford said, "I will not infringe on that responsibility, but rather wish him the very best in all that is good for our country."

Rather than present Congress with a list of legislative requests, Ford chose to emphasize accomplishments of his 30-month presidency.

Ford entered the House chamber where he served for 25 years and was greeted by prolonged applause. House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., introduced Ford as "an old friend, the President of the United States."

His voice breaking, Ford closed his speech with a prayer that "God guide this wonderful country, its people, and those they have chosen to lead them."

Earlier, he told the joint session of Congress that "the state of the union is good ... today we have a more perfect union than when my stewardship began."

Ford recalled that when he took office Aug. 9, 1974, "our nation was deeply divided and tormented. In rapid succession, the vice president and the president had resigned in disgrace .... In January 1975, I reported to the Congress that the state of the union was not good .... A year ago, I reported that the state of the union was better — in many ways a lot better — but still not good enough ....

"Now, after 30 months as your President I can say that while we still have a way to go, I am proud of the long way we have come together."

He cited the fact the nation was at peace and no Americans were fighting anywhere in the world.

Turning to domestic concerns, Ford said his administration had "successfully cut inflation by more than half .... We have created more jobs."

But the continuing high level of unemployment, he called "my greatest regret as I leave office."

He chided Congress for failing to act on many of the energy proposals he had sent to Capitol Hill. "Only half belatedly became law," he said, then noted that the nation is more dependent on foreign oil today than it was in 1973.

He referred to his recent proposals to reorganize the federal energy bureaucracy, proposals that closely resemble plans outlined by Carter, and said, "I urgently ask Congress and the new administration to move quickly on these issues."

On another matter given high priority by the incoming administration, Ford chided Congress for refusing to give him the authority, subject to congressional veto, to reorganize federal agencies.

The authority Ford never received is expected to be given to Carter early in his administration.

In a passage directed as much to Carter as to Congress, Ford said the United States must update its strategic forces to ensure that it doesn't fall behind the Soviet Union.

For that reason, he said, he advocated pursuit of the Trident missile launching submarine program, the B1 bomber and a more advanced intercontinental ballistic missile. One of the first decisions Carter must make is whether to approve full-scale production of the B1. Congress late last year delayed the final decision on the B1 until the next president took office, a move taken by the Democratic majority in anticipation of Carter's victory.

Ford used some of his strongest language in a plea to Congress not to hamper Carter's ability to act decisively in foreign affairs.

"There can be only one commander-in-chief," he said. "In these times crises cannot be managed and wars cannot be waged by committee. Nor can peace be pursued solely by parliamentary debate."

Addressing himself to the Republican minority in the House and Senate, Ford said, "I urge members of my party in the Congress to give the new President loyal support" in foreign policy.

Report twice-purged Teng now premier

HONG KONG (AP) — A Hong Kong newspaper reported today that twice-purged Teng Hsiao-ping, the late Premier Chou En-lai's heir apparent, has been rehabilitated again and named premier of China.

Ming Pao, which is politically independent and is considered to have good news coverage of China, said its information came from a traveler from Canton who got it from a Communist official.

The official reportedly said the appointment was announced in "an internal document" from Peking, that Teng has begun working as premier, and that a public announcement of the appointment would be made later this month.

The paper said the report could not be confirmed.

News reports from Peking last week said wall posters demanding the 72-year-old Teng be named premier appeared in the capital and were well received by crowds gathered to honor Chou on the first anniversary of his death.

Bell mapped resistance to school desegregation, says black leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — As President-elect Carter reiterated his confidence in Griffin B. Bell, the chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus said today that the attorney general-designate was "the mastermind of Georgia's massive resistance" to school desegregation in the late 1950s.

Rep. Parren J. Mitchell, D-Md., told the Senate Judiciary Committee that the nomination of Bell was a sharp disappointment for blacks who turned out "in unprecedented numbers to help elect Jimmy Carter."

As the committee began its third day of hearings on the controversial choice of the Atlanta lawyer and former federal judge to head the Justice Department, Mitchell said blacks had thought that "at long last we will have friends in the White House and in the Cabinet."

"We feel we will not have a friend in the attorney general's office," he said, adding that the 17 caucus members felt they had no choice but to oppose Bell's confirmation by the Senate.

The president-elect, meanwhile, before meeting today with the Joint Chiefs of Staffs, told reporters, "Mark my words about the attorney general. I still predict he will be a great attorney general, not just adequate."

Civil rights leader Clarence Mitchell told the judiciary panel Wednesday that Carter never would have been elected president if blacks had known he was going to chose Bell for the government's top legal post.

Mitchell, too, called Bell the architect of former Georgia Gov. Ernest Vandiver's efforts to resist court ordered school desegregation nearly two decades ago. Bell was counsel to Vandiver, an avowed segregationist.

Bell himself told the committee Tuesday that his actions may have contributed to a delay in Georgia's school desegregation, but did not defy the law. Bell said he actually had been "a voice of moderation" in "a volatile time."

"We never had any violence," Bell testified. "Maybe we delayed (desegregation), but we never defied the law."

Mitchell, director of the NAACP's Washington bureau, accused the committee's Democrats of asking Bell "gentle" questions in an effort to make him look good.

Mitchell said that if a Republican president had nominated Bell, the Democrats "would have given him the kind of going over that would have convinced the country he should not be confirmed."

Congressman Mitchell said that a new South has emerged but it was not because of men like Bell who, he said, had "knuckled under to mob attitudes."

Valley crime

Foothill Dairy robbed

The Foothill Dairy at 130 Valley Center Ave., San Dimas, was robbed by a young man who threatened an employe with a long knife, sheriff's deputies said.

The victim, 16 years old, said the robber approached him from behind, put the knife to his leg and demanded money from the cash register. After getting it, he ran, the victim said.

The robber was described as white, 16 to 19 years old, 5 feet 9 weighing 150 pounds. He had blond hair, blue eyes, a mustache and wore a white long-sleeved shirt with stripes and bluejeans.

Hitchhiker raped, beaten

A 31-year-old woman hitchhiker was kidnaped, brutally beaten, raped and robbed in Ontario's De Anza Park early this morning, Ontario police reported.

The woman, according to police, was found semi-conscious behind the park's community center in the 1400 block of S. Fern Avenue by a center custodian about 7 a.m.

Police said the woman was rushed to Ontario Community Hospital for treatment of facial and head injuries, and shock. She was later transferred to San Bernardino County Hospital for further treatment.

The woman was able to tell officers that she was hitchhiking on Mission Boulevard near Taylor Avenue about 3 a.m. when two men stopped their car.

She said the men grabbed her and pushed her into the vehicle and drove off. They stopped the vehicle and forced her out of the car at the park, where they began hitting her.

One of the men, she told officers, produced a knife and threatened her life unless she submitted. Both men attacked her, raped her and took a small amount of cash from her purse and fled.

The woman described her assailants as both being Latin, wearing fancy clothes. She said one was about 41, 5 feet 10, 180 pounds with grey neck-length hair and a mustache. The second man, possibly named Robert, was about 20, 5 feet 10, 160 pounds.

Wienerschnitzel robbed

Der Wienerschnitzel at 175 W. Foothill Blvd. in Pomona was robbed Wednesday night by two men, one armed with a nickel-plated revolver.

The victim, a 16-year-old Ontario youth employed there, said the pair approached, placed an order and then demanded money. When the youth said, "You must be kidding," one man brushed back his shirt and displayed the weapon. The victim surrendered the cash in a cloth bank bag and was forced to lie on the floor before the men fled.

The gunman was described as black, 27 years old, 5 feet 11 weighing 160 pounds. He wore a dark knit cap, white T-shirt and dark trousers and had a white bandage on his lip.

D.A. won't act in shooting

The district attorney's office plans no criminal action against an unidentified young Pomona man who shot and killed a 16-year-old youth he said was robbing an all-night market Sunday night.

Deputy Dist. Attorney G. R. Poirier, acting head deputy of the Pomona office, said his study of police reports of the incident showed no criminal act by the market employe who shot Lonnie Troy Jr., while Troy was allegedly robbing the 7-Eleven Market at 1001 E. Grand Ave. in Pomona.

Troy, shot in the throat and head, died early the next morning in Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Police have declined to reveal the name of the man who shot him, fearing retaliation.

In the meantime, threats have been reported against the shooter, police said. Tuesday afternoon, three young women confronted store owner Tongkuk Kim and said they were going to get the man who shot Troy.

A coroner's inquest sometimes is convened in cases of violent deaths, Poirier said, but in such cases the coroner is investigating the possibility that a criminal act may have been involved. Since no such condition appears to exist in the local case, he said, it is doubtful that an inquest will be ordered by the coroner.

CIM inmate escapes

An all-points bulletin has been issued for the apprehension of an inmate at the California Institution for Men (CIM) in Chino who "walked away" from the dairy shortly after 8:45 p.m. Wednesday, prison authorities report.

The inmate, Alan Smallwood, 32, entered the Department of Corrections in April 1974 from Los Angeles County. He was convicted of robbery and sentenced to a term of from 5 years to life.

Prison authorities said that with his earned "time cut," Smallwood would have been eligible to go home in two months. He now faces escape charges.

Liquor store held up

A man armed with a knife robbed the Ace Liquor Store at 4700 E. Holt Blvd. in Montclair of a small amount of cash Wednesday night, police said.

The man, wearing an orange Hawaiian shirt, approached the store clerk at the counter about 9:40 p.m. and pulled a knife. The man threatened the clerk and demanded the cash from the register.

Police believe the robber ran to a car driven by a second man and escaped.

The robber was described as a Latin, 20, 5 feet 6, 170 pounds, wearing the bright shirt and white pants.

Ontario juvenile shot

A juvenile was wounded by a shotgun blast Wednesday night when he and two of his friends were fired at by other youths driving eastbound on Mission Boulevard between Caldwell and Taylor avenues in Ontario, police reported.

Police said the wounded youth was transported by his friends to Ontario Community Hospital, where he was treated for minor shotgun pellet wounds.

The youths, aged 16 and 17, from Ontario, told officers that a car containing several other youths, possibly from Chino, drove up beside them about 10 p.m.

One of the youths in the second car pointed a shotgun out the window and fired several times at the victim and his friends.

The victim could only describe the assailants as male Latins in a 1970 or 1971 light green Chevrolet Monte Carlo.

Police believe the shooting is related to inter-city youth gang rivalry.

Man robbed at home

A Claremont-area man was robbed in front of his own home Wednesday afternoon by two men pretending to be looking for a car being offered for sale, sheriff's deputies reported.

The victim, Robert E. Macklin, 57, was robbed of everything he had in his pockets after being lured outside his home at 425 E. Base Line Road.

FPC: should it turn on emergency gas?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission is deciding whether to allow emergency natural gas sales to two pipelines that are short of gas and that have cut back service to customers in a number of states.

The action by the commission is being watched closely because the way could be cleared for gas-starved pipelines to buy fuel from sources not subject to federal price regulations.

Such fuel would cost more but it would allow the pipelines to get through the winter, which has brought record-low temperatures to much of the United States.

In the case being heard today by the FPC, the Houston Pipeline Co., of Houston, Tex., wants to sell the gas. Houston Pipeline is a firm that does not transport natural gas across state borders and so is not subject to federally regulated gas prices.

Buying the gas are two hardpressed interstate pipelines ordinarily subject to FPC regulation and price ceilings: Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp. and United Gas Pipe Line Co.

Those two pipelines have suffered increasing shortages of gas supplies since 1970, forcing them to curtail deliveries to their customers in a number of states.

The latest FPC report, covering July through September, showed the Transcontinental company was short some 115.3 billion cubic feet of gas. Its shortages hit most heavily in North Carolina, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

United Gas was short some 198.3 billion cubic feet, forcing large curtailments in Louisiana — ironically, one of the nation's major gas-producing states — and Mississippi.

Through November and December, the two pipelines had been able to buy gas, at prices unregulated by the federal government, from Houston Pipeline under FPC rules allowing such emergency purchases for 60 days.

Houston Pipeline has asked the FPC to allow continuation of such sales — up to 85 million cubic feet a day to Transcontinental and up to 150 million per day to United — for another 60 days-starting Jan. 6.

But it is not clear how much authority the FPC has to permit that. When the commission tried in 1975 to authorize such emergency sales for as long as 180 days, the attempt was overturned by the federal courts which considered it an indirect way of abandoning the price regulations required by law.

On Jan. 5, just one day before the new Houston Gas deliveries were to begin, the FPC authorized the new sales but scheduled public hearings on the complicated issue.

It promised Houston Gas that while the FPC makes up its mind about the deal, Houston Gas will not risk becoming an FPC-regulated company just because it is selling more gas to Transcontinental and United.

That decision kept the gas flowing to those two pipelines temporarily.

In part, the nation's growing natural gas shortage represents the decline of gas production from old fields and the failure to find new gas deposits as fast as the nation consumes the old ones.

Another aspect of the shortage is the growing diversion of new gas sales away from interstate pipelines where the sale prices are limited by federal regulation, into the intrastate market within each gas-producing state where producers can charge higher prices.

The gas industry and the Ford administration have both argued that ending federal price regulation of natural gas would stimulate the discovery and production of new gas supplies and allow gas purchasers nationwide to bid for them on an equal, unrestrained basis.

By allowing unregulated prices, the emergency 60-day purchase rule of the FPC aims for the same goals on a temporary basis, making it easier for interstate pipelines to find and pay for new supplies.

But 60 days is not enough to get through a cold winter like this one.

If the FPC can justify Houston Pipeline's second round of emergency gas sales to Transcontinental and United, and if such a decision is not reversed by the courts, the FPC may have found a way to stretch emergency sales over the worst of the winter demand.

That's why the outcome is being closely watched by everyone concerned: not only Houston Pipeline, but other intrastate pipelines or producers with high-priced gas to sell; not only Transcontinental and United, but other interstate lines trying to fill their curtailed deliveries; and not only the gas industry, but the customers — mainly industries — in the hardest-hit states who are willing to pay the higher price and receive more gas, if the FPC will let them.

Meanwhile, five members of the Senate Commerce Committee asked 19 gas pipeline companies to tell Congress how they plan to cope with the natural gas crunch.

Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., one of the five, said the long-range forecast shows no relief in sight for what "so far has been one of the century's coldest winters."

Stevenson said he is prepared to reintroduce legislation that would give the FPC standby power to require gas-rich pipelines to share their gas with those plagued with shortages. Similar legislation, opposed by the pipeline industry, never made it through the last Congress.

Pudinski takes post in Rialto

SAN BERNARDINO (AP) — Walter Pudinski, who rose through the ranks of the California Highway Patrol to become its commissioner for two years, has left the CHP to be city administrator of nearby Rialto.

Pudinski, 50, was named commissioner by Gov. Ronald Reagan in 1972, and resigned in late 1974. Since then, he has been commander of the CHP's inland zone in San Bernardino.

He started his new $30,000-a-year job Wednesday.

The Sacramento Union reported that Pudinski resigned from the patrol six days after becoming eligible for early retirement on a slightly reduced 25-year pension.

who was taken from us so quickly 1 year ago today, Jan. 13, 1976. 1 year has passed since that sad day when the one we loved so passed away. Your end was very sudden, made us weep and cry. The saddest part of all was, we never said good-bye. We did not know the pain you had or hear your final sigh. We only knew you passed away with a last good-bye. Now in the grave yard softly sleeping, where the grass gently waves, lies the one we loved so dearly but whom we could not save. To your grave we wander, placing flowers with tender care, and we feel your presence near us as we sadly linger there. Only God knows how much we sadly miss you Charles dear. Sadly missed by —

Dr. Rappel appointed to Park Avenue staff

DR. ROBERT RAPPEL

Dr. Robert Rappel has been appointed to the staff of Park Avenue Hospital in Pomona.

Since 1969, he has been in private practice in Florida and was senior attending surgeon in urology and urologic surgery at Osteopathic General Hospital, North Miami Beach; International Hospital in Miami and Community Hospital of South Broward, Hollywood, Fla.

Dr. Rappel is a graduate of Kirksville College of Osteopathic Medicine in Kirksville, Mo. For three years, he was a National Institute of Health Undergraduate Research Fellow in the Department of Pharmacology where he performed basic research in renal physiology and renal transplantation.

He completed his internship and residency at the Kirksville Hospital and was a Fellow in Urology at the Postgraduate Institute of Osteopathic Medicine in New York City.

Dr. Rappel has been the recipient of five National Osteopathic Foundation grants.

He was in private practice in Kirskville from 1966 to 1968 and served as acting chairman of the urology section at the Kirksville Hospital.

Valley center needs sitters

The San Gabriel Valley Regional Center for the Developmentally Disabled in Pomona is seeking persons interested in training to become sitters for the developmentally disabled in the valley.

Instruction will be provided by specialists in the field at adult education evening classes planned in the Claremont and Covina areas.

The classes will be open to high school students, youth group members, senior citizens or others who are interested in serving as sitters for a nominal wage.

The classes will be offered only if adequate enrollment can be obtained.

Upon satisfactory completion of the course, certificates will be awarded and graduates will be referred to an agency which handles referrals for sitter services from the San Gabriel Valley Regional Center.

The sitters will be contacted for services when the agency receives a request for assistance. The sitter is paid by the agency upon completion of the assignment.

Additional information concerning the class and registration may be obtained by calling or writing Judy Koerner, community organization specialist, San Gabriel Valley Regional Center, 250 E. Harrison Ave., Pomona, phone 593-7595.

Head of L.A. County D.A.'s child support bureau named

Deputy Dist. Atty. Herbert M. Jacobowitz, 44, has been appointed head of the Los Angeles County District Attorney's child support bureau, county District Atty. John Van de Kamp has announced.

Jacobowitz has been with the department since 1964 and has been acting head of the bureau since it was founded last March.

The bureau is federally funded and soon will employ 1,000 persons, which is 40 per cent of the total staff of the district attorney's office, Van de Kamp said.

Jacobowitz, who will be paid $45,573 a year, listed the following as major priority areas for the bureau:

—The implementation of an automated system to monitor child support cases.

—An increase in the use of wage assignments for the collection of child support payments.

—A speedier system for obtaining court orders to enforce child support payments.

—And, greater emphasis on the enforcement aspect of child support operations.

JAMES H. PIATT

Superior Court judge sworn in

Attorney S.S. Schwartz, elected a judge of the Los Angeles County Superior Court last November, has been sworn in officially by the court's presiding judge, William P. Hogoboom.

Schwartz has been assigned to the Pomona Superior Court where he joins one other newly-elected judge, Roberta Ralph. Both were practicing attorneys before their election.

Schwartz practiced law privately in Huntington Park and served as a judge pro tem of the San Antonio Municipal Court in Huntington Park. He has been a member of the American Arbitration Association and the National Panel of Labor Arbitrators.

Schwartz is a World War II veteran and was admitted to the state bar in 1946. He and his family live in Beverly Hills.

Juvenile Court referees reassigned

Three Juvenile Court referees have been assigned to the Pomona Superior Court for 1977.

They are Roy Dankman, Barry Levy and Reuben A. Ortega.

Dankman is a graduate of Washington University at St. Louis and his law degree was obtained at UCLA. He was in private practice from 1966 until he was appointed a referee in 1974.

Levy was a deputy public defender in Los Angeles from 1969 to 1973. He attended the New Mexico Institute of Technology and received his law degree from Southwestern University in Los Angeles. He was appointed a referee in 1975.

Ortega was a deputy district attorney from 1967 to 1973. He is a graduate of the University of New Mexico and obtained his law degree at Georgetown University. He was appointed a referee in 1976.

Presiding Municipal Court judge selected

For the second time since his appointment to the Pomona Municipal Court bench in 1971, Judge James H. Piatt has been selected the court's presiding judge.

He replaces Judge Thomas F. Nuss, who held the post last year.

The selection is for a one-year period. The first time Piatt held the post was in 1974.

Piatt, who lives in Pomona, was appointed in March of 1971 by then Gov. Ronald Reagan, and succeeded Judge Charles Vogel of Claremont who had been promoted to the Superior Court.

Piatt is a Pomona College graduate who earned his law degree at UCLA in 1961. He was in private practice prior to his judicial appointment.

Working with him in his courtroom are Clerk Ethel Mooney and Bailiff Hank Zibell.

New court assignments announced

New assignments for judges assigned to the West Valley Superior Court in Ontario have been made by supervising Judge Clifton L. Allen.

Judge Allen will call the master trial calendar daily except Fridays at 8:30 a.m. in his courtroom. The criminal calendar will be called on Fridays, with arraignments at 8:30 a.m., probation and sentencing hearings at 9:30 and discovery and evidentiary motions at 10:30.

Short-cause criminal matters will be heard Tuesdays through Thursdays at 8:30 a.m.

Judge Kenneth G. Ziebarth will hear defaults and adoptions Mondays through Thursdays at 8:30 a.m. and short-cause civil matters Fridays at 8:30 a.m.

Judge Richard Garner will hear settlement conferences Mondays through Thursdays at 8:30 a.m. He will call law and motion hearings on Fridays at 10 a.m., with trial setting conferences at 9:15 a.m.

Garner will also hear probate matters referred by the court commissioner.

Court Commissioner Duane M. Thomas will hear orders to "show cause" in preliminary motions on family law matters each Monday and Tuesday at 8:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. He will also receive probate matters Mondays at 8:30 a.m., with contested cases referred to Garner.

Environment services volunteers are needed

Because of budget restrictions which have greatly reduced staff, volunteers are needed to help in the Pomona office of environmental services located in the county court building, said Ken Siemens, chief sanatarian.

Duties will be to answer the telephone, file, and record complaints. Typing skills are desirable but not required. Consumer food complaints such as mislabeling, sanitation problems, as well as dog bite reports are handled through this office.

"If volunteers could give one or 2½ days a week, it would be helpful," said Siemens. Training will be provided. "With volunteer assistance, sanitarians could devote 100 per cent of their time to necessary field work instead of manning the office," Siemens continued.

An appeal is being made to retired secretaries, senior citizens wanting to keep active, students who need work experience, and housewives who want to get involved and help others.

Volunteers are asked to call Miss Mary Lou Ginther, regional coordinator of volunteers for Los Angeles County Department of Health Services, San Gabriel Valley Region. She can be reached at 623-6811, ext. 528.

Candidate to visit

Lloyd McBride, candidate for president of the 1.4 million-member United Steelworkers of America, will be in Fontana Monday to meet with local union officers and meet workers at various steel plants.

McBride, who heads the union's District 34 in Missouri, Kansas, and southern Illinois, seeks to replace the current president, I. W. Abel, who will retire next June.

More than 15,000 members of the national union are covered by labor agreements in the San Bernardino, Fontana, Riverside and Colton areas.

Bridge now historical site

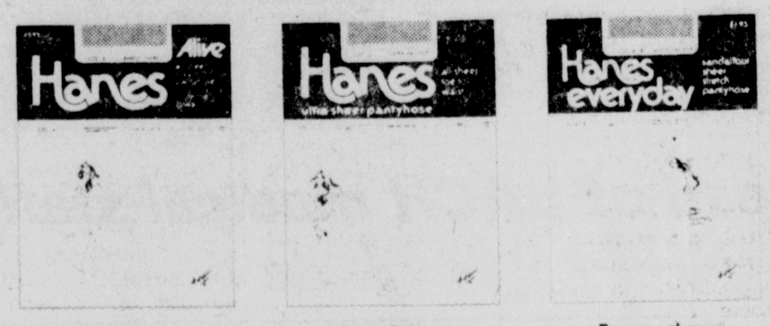

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The 375-foot suspension bridge near downtown San Diego is an historical site, proclaimed officially by the city's Historic Site Board.

Lynch becomes first female chief criminalist

Criminalist Sharon K. Lynch, assigned to the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department crime laboratory, has accepted the position of chief criminalist-toxicologist for the Laramie County Sheriff's Department in Cheyenne, Wyo.

Mrs. Lynch, who has been with the Los Angeles County department for three years, will become the first female chief criminalist in the country, Sheriff Peter Pitchess said.

During her stint with the local department, Mrs. Lynch worked in the narcotics and dangerous drugs section, the physical evidence section and the toxicology section. Before joining the department she worked as a toxicologist in the Los Angeles County Coroner's Office for three years.

She and her husband, Niel, a free lance writer, have been residing in Alhambra.

Pitchess commends detective sergeants

Los Angeles County Sheriff Peter Pitchess has commended four veteran detective sergeants of the department who currently are serving as presidents of different professional law enforcement groups.

They are:

Frank O'Farrell, of the robbery detail, who is president of Southern California Robbery Investigators Association; Romayne Shaw, of the forgery-fraud detail, is president of the Southern Division of the California Check Investigators Association; Donald Bricker, of the auto theft detail, is president of the West States Auto Theft Investigators Association; and Guy Flesher, of the forgery-fraud detail, is president of the Southern California chapter of the International Association of Credit Card Investigators.

Independent garage owners are invited to attend. They may phone 628-1305 for more information.

Unit officers are:

President, Ted Annema, Ted's Garage, Ontario; vice president, Dale Bright, Dale Bright Auto Service, Chino; treasurer, Kris Grinsberg, Kris's Garage, Pomona; recording secretary, Neil Petersen, Quality Automotive, Colton; and board of directors, Bill Jones, Riverside, Bill Schoneman, Chino, Rick Cortez, Chino, Billy Holt, Pomona, G. L. Buskirk, San Bernardino, Jim VerSteeg, Redlands, and Mike Stevenson, Redlands.

Unlucky tanker lucky— for some

EAST PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The tanker Argo Merchant grounded off the New England coast last month, broke up in a storm and dumped more than 7 million gallons of oil. But, says the Rhode Island Lottery, the whole thing was lucky for at least three people.

A lottery spokesman said the lottery interviewed three of five persons who won $2,500 each on the game with the number 382. All three said they played 382 after spotting it painted on the ship's hull while watching television.

MSAC official to retire

Thomas J. O'Connor, vice president of academic affairs at Mt. San Antonio College, will retire from that post next June after 28 years of service.

O'Connor was described by college President Eldon E. Pearce as the one person responsible for "laying the foundation of an educational program at our college that is one of the finest of the state's 104 community colleggs."

The MSAC Board of Trustees accepted O'Connor's resignation with regret. Trustee William B. Temple commented that "He (O'Connor) has really seen it all."

Pearson told the board that when O'Connor first came to Walnut as a coordinator of counseling in 1949, the college had an enrollment of 1,018 students. Today the enrollment is nearly 25,000.

O'Connor was born in Salem, Mass., in 1916. He received his bachelor's degree from Boston College, and his master's degree and doctorate from the Claremont Colleges. Before coming to MSAC, he taught Latin and Greek at St. Albert's Prep College in Middletown, N.Y.

He came to MSAC from the Antelope Valley Union High School District in Lancaster where he was a freshman counselor. In addition to his counseling job at MSAC he also taught psychology here. He was named dean of counseling in 1952, and assistant director of instruction in 1959. He became vice president 10 years later.

Currently he is a member of a score of local and statewide educational associations. He is a past president of the Kiwanis Club of Greater Pomona, and the author of a book, "Follow up Study Studies in Junior Colleges."

In his letter of retirement, O'Connor told the trustees he was concluding his career with MSAC "with mixed emotions. I shall miss my associates."

He said he was retiring so he could travel, do consulting work in education in his leisure time, and some occasional teaching abroad.

He and his wife, Jane, have moved to Leisure World in Laguna Hills, in anticipation of his retirement.

What's going on around here

Personnel director

Tom Bates has been promoted to personnel director at Inspiron in Upland.

The firm manufactures inhalation therapy equipment and disposable medical products. It is located at 161 N. Mountain Ave.

Bates joined Inspiron in 1974 as personnel manager. He is a member of the Pomona Valley Personnel Association.

Receives fellowship

Frank J. Schutz of Walnut will be awarded a fellowship in the Institute for the Advancement of Engineering's College of Fellows during National Engineers Week, Feb. 20 — 26.

His will be one of several fellowships which are awarded annually to engineers who make notable contributions to their profession.

New fellows will be installed at a luncheon Feb. 18 at the Los Angeles Pacifica Hotel.

Senior citizens trip

The La Verne Recreation Department will sponser a trip Wednesday for senior citizens to the Thomas Vineyards in Cucamonga.

A bus will leave at 9:15 a.m. and return two hours later. Pick-up points are at the main building at Hillcrest Homes and the mini park at Third and D streets. Cost is 50 cents per person. For more information, persons may phone the recreation office at 593-4571.

Daddy and me

Students at Cabrillo Elementary School in Upland are asked to take their fathers to a "daddy and me" program Jan. 20 at Baldy View Elementary School.

The program, starting at 7:30 p.m., will feature Mark Cannon, a young magician.

Fishermen's discount

A special discount program for fishermen is available at the Cucamonga-Guasti Regional Park Ontario.

They may purchase a book containing six tickets for $10 if 16 years or older, and $5 if junior fishermen. Each permit usually costs $2 for adults and $1 for juniors.

Revenues generated by these tickets will be used to buy trout and stocks for the lakes.

Help needed

The La Verne-San Dimas Community Helpline is seeking volunteers to receive crisis telephone calls at their homes.

The phone calls are processed through an answering service which protects the volunteer's identity.

By calling a volunteer counselor, a person may receive assistance with crisis situations such as loneliness, suicide, alcoholism, legal advice, drug addiction and family problems.

A six-session training course begins Monday at 7 p.m. at the San Dimas Open Door counseling agency, 575 Covina Blvd., San Dimas.

Persons wanting more information may phone 599-7676.

Plant openhouse

VCA Ethyl California, 2655 Pine St., Pomona, will hold open house Jan. 23 from 2 to 4 p.m. for its employes and their families.

The facility employs nearly 300. One thousand visitors are expected to tour the plant during the open house.

Visitors will be presented carnations at the door and gifts as they leave.

Forum, PTA meet

The next school and community forum at Alta Loma High School will be held on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the school library. This forum will highlight the school's counseling department.

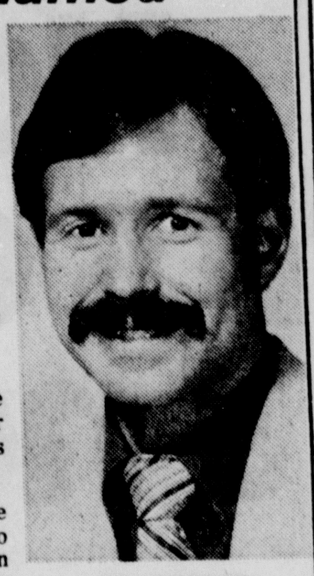

Just prior to the program, the ALHS PTA will hold a short business meeting to select a nominating committee to report back at the next regular meeting.

The forum will be under the direction of Gene Marshall, assistant principal for pupil personnel. He will give a description of the philosophy and structure of the guidance department.

The second phase of the program will be to divide parents into small groups, each led by a counselor, where they will discuss counseling responsibilities, limitations of counseling, career, educational and personal counseling, problems of discipline, health, and attendance. Time will be allotted for questions and answers.

Counselors participating in the Forum with Marshall will be Norman Brintnall, Lloyd Conner, Madeline Patane, Art Castro, Sue Buzzell, Arlene Patterson and Bill Vermilya.

Pomona C of C's communications director named

STEVE TABOR

Steve Tabor, former editor of a small weekly newspaper in Arizona, has been named the new director of communications for the Pomona Chamber of Commerce.

Tabor, 25, succeeds Barbara Rauch in the post. Mrs. Rauch is now executive director of the Covina Valley Board of Realtors.

In the post, Tabor will be responsible for chamber publication, press relations and special events.

Tabor is a 1974 graduate of Eastern New Mexico University, majoring in journalism. He worked for the Clovis News Journal in New Mexico before becoming editor of the San Pedro Valley News-Sun in Benson, Ariz.

Tabor and his wife, Julia, reside in Upland.

Red Cross first aid, safety course offered

County Service Area 50 which serves Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda, will join Chaffey College in offering a Red Cross first aid and personal safety course.

The four-week course, starting Tuesday, will be held in the Rancho Cucamonga Library, 9191 Base Line Road, Cucamonga. It will be held each Tuesday and Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m. Louis Lewellen is the instructor.

To register, residents may phone Lewellen at 593-8101 after 5 p.m. The fee is $2, which includes purchase of a textbook.

Names in news

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Bella Abzug, whose term ends today with the swearing-in of the new Congress, says she may throw her famous hat into the ring in the 1977 New York City mayoral race.

The Manhattan Democrat, who lost the Senate nomination to Daniel Patrick Moynihan, said she was being swayed by voter surveys showing her as the leading candidate.

The latest was a New York Daily News opinion poll published Monday. Based on telephone interviews with 273 voting-age residents taken Dec. 13-15, the survey shows Mrs. Abzug receiving 18 per cent — or just under 50 votes — to Mayor Abraham D. Beame's 16 per cent.

TORONTO (AP) — Meeting Prince Andrew, second in line to the British throne, was "sort of like meeting a famous pop star," says Kirsten Jones, 16, who was in the crowd that greeted his plane here.

Andrew, also 16, arrived here Monday night to spend six months at the private Lakefield College School near Peterborough, Ont.

"I was so nervous," said Miss Jones. "He asked me if the weather got colder and if he would need more clothes. It was really exciting."

London sources said the son of Queen Elizabeth II would take his turn at school chores and participate in camping exercises at the school, which stresses self-reliance.

Now TWA presents on-time service 3 new ways.

Months ago TWA made a commitment to be the best business flyer's airline in the business.

And we're living up to it.

All over the country business flyers have been impressed with our on-time record in arrivals.

Now we're taking off in 3 new directions for on-time service.

You're going to get on-time reservations – a call to TWA will be one of the quickest you can make.

You're going to get on-time in-flight service – because we know you like your beverages early in the flight.

And you're going to get on-time baggage handling – what good is a flight that arrives on time if your luggage doesn't?

TWA is out to give all flyers the most efficient service we can. And especially business flyers who are often on a tight schedule.

So call your Travel Agent. For on-time service, you want to be on TWA. Where being the best isn't everything, it's the only thing.

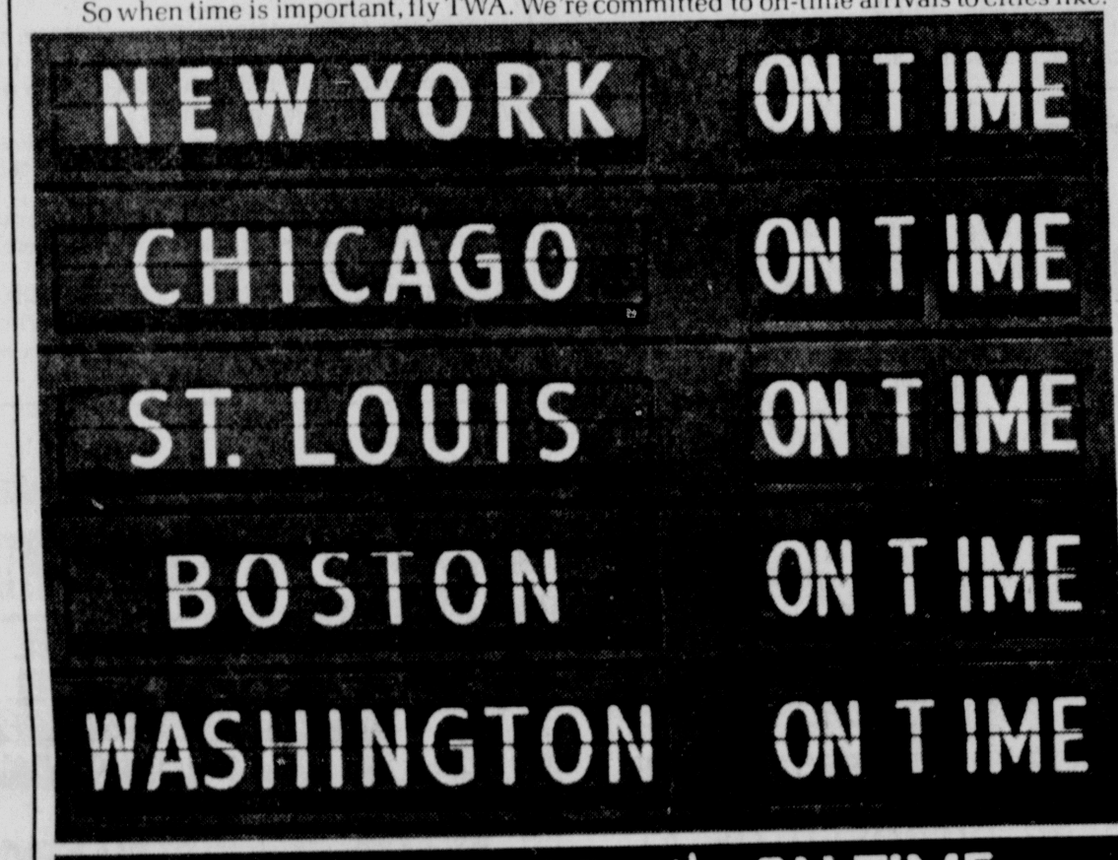

ARRIVALS ON TIME

Superior on-time performance. You have a right to expect it. And on TWA you get it.

Right now we're operating at the highest level of on-time performance in our history.

This superior record comes, pure and simple, from the tremendous efforts of TWA's 31,830 people who perform their jobs with outstanding efficiency to keep us running on time more of the time than ever before.

So when time is important, fly TWA. We're committed to on-time arrivals to cities like:

INFLIGHT SERVICE NEW ON TIME

At TWA, we know you like your beverages early in the flight. We don't believe you should be kept waiting. And we're doing everything possible to see that you're not.

As soon as the seat belt signs go off, we begin beverage service immediately and do our best to serve everyone on board within 30 minutes.

And as a special treat starting January 17th on our coast-to-coast flights in Coach we'll give you fine California wines for $1. Refills are free.

Capt. Richard Lee | Capt. R. W. Beck | Mike Sanches | Marjean Vonheeder

BAGGAGE NEW ON TIME

TWA's out to deliver your bags faster than ever before. And nine out of ten times we even beat our own tough standards.

TWA introduced double baggage containers for our widebody 1011s and 747s. They enable us to handle your baggage faster. None of our major competitors has anything like them.

After all, what good is it for you to arrive on time if your bags don't?

RESERVATIONS NEW ON TIME

98,000 calls a day. 35 million calls a year. To handle that kind of volume an airline has to be pretty efficient.

At TWA, we are. We answer the vast majority of our calls within 20 seconds.

You can call any one of our domestic reservations offices, any time of the day, any day of the week. And you can get information on all of TWA's flights. You'll even get information on the flights of 490 other airlines worldwide. Sometimes even they call us.

Next time you need a reservation, call TWA. It will be one of the quickest calls you'll ever make.

BEAUTY TREATMENT

Kathy Knudsen, 10, of Ontario, prepares her white silkie for what is being tabbed the largest junior poultry show in the United States, Sunday at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds. A silkie is a five-toed crested domestic fowl with soft, white webless feathers. First kathy dunks and washes the bird, squeezes it dry with a towel, and finishes with a hair dryer because blowing against the feathers makes them fluffier.

Poultry pageant slated Sunday

At least 1,200 entries are expected for the first all-junior poultry show Sunday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds at Pomona.

The show will be conducted and sponsored by the juniors of the Pacific Coast Bantam Club.

A total of 51 trophies will be awarded to juniors who will come from as far away as Santa Maria to the north and San Diego to the south.

Labeled as the largest junior poultry show in the United States, the competition is the first show of its kind because there will be enough judges provided that the exhibitor may sit with the judge as he or she rates the entry. The junior must be present at judging or have his entry disqualified.

The majority of the exhibitors are from local 4-H clubs.

Volunteering their services as judges are Merton Landon, Temple City; Andrew Stodel, Van Nuys; Bob LaMar, San Bernardino; Dave Anderson, Santa Maria; James Stodel, Los Angeles; Miss Donita Blalock, El Cajon; R. J. Steele, Pomona; John Henderson, Chino; and Ed Demlar, Fallbrook.

Susan Knudsen, 14, a student at Don Lugo High School, is president of the Junior Club. Senior advisor and superintendent is Mrs. Joy Knudsen. Harold Peck, chairman of Mt. San Antonio College's agricultural department, is chairman of the judges section. Bob Lusach is the junior superintendent.

Entries to the show are open to juniors, 6 through 19 years old.

Bonita talks appear far from over

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

Disagreement over the scope of contract talks between teachers and administrators in the Bonita school district appear to be far from over, both sides indicated Wednesday night during a school board meeting.

Talks have been stalled for months over the issues of pay, fringe benefits, class sizes, transfer policies, teaching conditions, and personal and academic freedom.

Recently, teachers and the school board's bargaining representatives agreed to submit the remaining unresolved issues to an impartial fact-finding board.

The indication Wednesday night, however, was that even fact-finding may not lead to a solution of the dispute.

School Supt. James Johnson again reiterated his position that a recent one-day strike called by the Bonita Unified Teachers Association (BUTA) against the district's 12 schools had a detrimental effect on both negotiations and the educational process.

"I had always been under the impression the purpose of California's new collective bargaining law was to avoid strikes," he said. "The law was sponsored by the California Teachers Association (CTA) and yet a strike occurred. We were never informed by the BUTA that there was going to be a strike."

Johnson said the monetary cost for the one-day strike had been $5,000 to $6,000, which the district had lost in revenues due to low student attendance and approximately $17,000 lost by teachers in pay and fringe benefits.

Linda Gubman, a BUTA representative, charged the school board and its representatives had been unfair in contract negotiations for refusing to include already established policies and practices in a new teacher contract.

"We are bewildered by the continued lack of fairness in maintaining these past practices which have been beneficial to the pupils, the teachers and the community," she said.

She was also critical of the 2 per cent salary increase teachers have been offered by the board.

"With approximately 10 per cent in new money this year, we feel it is unreasonable and unfair that only 2 per cent was allocated for increased salaries. When budgets concentrate on things instead of people, priorities are confused," she said.

In response, school board president Eugene Bowers said 89 per cent of the money goes to salaries, "11 per cent goes to things."

Edelman proposes medical service cost reduction

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

Los Angeles County may save thousands of dollars in medical payments if the county board of supervisors adopts a proposal by Chairman Ed Edelman.

Edelman claims the county "grossly overpays" for the medical services it provides under the present plan to defendants in criminal cases.

He said that last year the county paid $727,777 to physicians and medical laboratories for services required under the law.

"I'm not saying we should curtail those services," he explained. "I think we could reduce the costs through the adoption of annual contracts, rather than the present system of using court appointed individuals."

He charged the county has been paying "piece-meal" for services performed by physicians and laboratories, "and this has turned out to be very expensive.

"For example, defendants in narcotics cases are entitled to examination by a physician to determine such facts as whether marks on the defendant's arm are those of a hypodermic needle, the age of such marks, and whether the defendant was under the influence of narcotics at the time of his arrest. For this examination the court pays the doctor $100," Edelman explained.

"Physicians may schedule as many as 10 examinations in one day at the central jail. They receive $100 per examination, yet they spend only about 30 to 40 minutes on each patient."

In the case of tests performed on blood samples, Edelman said the county is billed $50 per test, even though the test is "very routine."

The board chairman said that with the volume of services the county buys annually, alternative financial arrangements could easily be developed that would reflect the high volume and shave costs by thousands of dollars.

He suggested that doctors or medical services submit proposals for annual contracts and asked Harry L. Hufford, the county's chief administrative officer, to work out details of some alternate plan.

HONORING KING

Pilot House student Dean Barnett and community aides Otis Ruch and Jesse Henderson prepare to distribute handbills advertising this evening's performance in honor of Dr. Martin Luther King's birthday. Program is set for 7:30 p.m. in the school district auditorium.

ESAA Pilot House honors Dr. Martin Luther King

An evening performance honoring the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. will be presented by students and staff members of Pomona's Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) Pilot House alternative school tonight at 7:30 in the Education Center auditorium, 800 S. Garey Ave.

The free program is planned as an observance of Dr. King's birthday Saturday. The program was organized by Jesse Henderson and Otis Rush, community aides, and Louise Henderson, family community assistant.

The program will include an introduction by Johney Brooks, pilot supervisor as well as students who will present original poetry and essays from their creative writing classes.

Students will also perform "A Man — A Woman," a dramatic reading by Stevie Wonder. Dr. King's speech, "I Have a Dream" will also be presented.

Eddiemarie Patterson, Pomona community leader, will speak on the subject, "Children of Ham" while other speakers will discuss Dr. King's life.

U.S. affairs are in limbo

A lame-duck president, however badly he may have been lamed in November, exercises all the powers and perquisites of his office until the stroke of noon on the following Jan. 20.

He may have little real power in terms of pushing legislation through Congress, but he can still do some dramatic things.

Fortunately, no outgoing president has ever gotten the country into a war, but it was in the last days of his administration in 1961 that President Eisenhower broke off diplomatic relations with Cuba, thus presenting the incoming Kennedy administration with a fait accompli and setting it up for the later Bay of Pigs disaster.

President Ford, emerging from virtual hibernation following his defeat in November, has turned positively activist.

He has, for instance, proposed statehood for Puerto Rico, to the surprise of many, including that commonwealth's new governor.

He announced he would take the question of amnesty for Vietnam war exiles under advisement, although no one really expected him to relieve Jimmy Carter of that campaign promise.

He indicated he would take executive action on the matters of pay raises for government officials and the lifting of gasoline price controls, actions which would require immediate legislative consideration by Congress.

In Britain and other parliamentary democracies, a new government takes over within hours of its election. The situation in this country is not as bad as it was before 1933, when the 20th Amendment to the Constitution changed the date of presidential inauguration from March to January and in effect established that the nation's affairs were to be held in a state of limbo for only two and a half months instead of four when a new administration succeeded an old.

But it is still a sloppy system.

A land of mystery

What is going on in China?

Scattered, disconnected reports of widespread disturbances continue to filter out of that country, keeping China-watchers busy trying to piece together a coherent picture.

Apparently, even before the death of Mao Tse-tung and the subsequent purge of his widow, Chiang Ching, "radical" followers of Chiang began mounting outright rebellion. According to one West German news agency report, fighting has occurred in 10 of China's 21 provinces and in one pitched battle in Szechwan, "many hundreds, if not thousands" of people were killed before the uprising was suppressed.

In another report reaching Tokyo, "radical agents" caused the shutdown of a tractor factory in Kiangsi province for eight months. The Peking government recently sent in the army to take over part of the nation's railroad system because of the rebel threat.

Disturbances continue in Paoting, only 90 miles from Peking, and in other major cities, although the worst seems to be over.

In the meantime, the true extent of nature's ravages in China in the form of earthquakes last year is yet to be revealed. The few foreign travelers in China are, as always, carefully insulated from contact with or knowledge of actual events in that country.

It is paradoxical that nearly 800 years after Marco Polo, the most populous country in the world remains a land of mystery, and that what we know about China remains a mixture of fact, myth and a great deal of speculation.

Think on these things

If you have ever tried to untangle strings of Christmas lights or shake loose a handful of wire hangers — then you have a visible, on-hand view of how it is to untangle some of the problems of living. We just have to remember there is always a way. We simply have to find which thing to move in order for it to all fall into place.

In our frustrations we try to straighten out the messes that were so easy to create. In fact, we do not exactly create, but we do let things have their way until we lose control. Our first thought is to force everything back into its right position or to cut the whole thing up in little pieces and begin again — but the only way to untangle anything is to sit down quietly and slowly untangle, sort out, put in order — and stay as calm as possible. There's always a way.

The public forum

Expos may be obsolete

Dear Editor:

We disagree with many of Rep. Jim Lloyd's comments on Expo 81 in the Dec. 31 Progress Bulletin. We should like to expand and emphasize those areas of disagreement in this letter.

Mr. Lloyd stated that in order for the project to succeed it must have the cooperation of local, state and federal levels — both public and private. This cooperation does not exist today. There is not only a lack of monetary support but a lack of encouragement for Ontario by surrounding local governments. Los Angeles and San Bernardino County supervisors have also shown lukewarm support for such a project.

Perhaps some of the reasons for this are: the proposed Expo will be five times larger than the Seattle World's Fair and every surrounding city will feel the impact of the 150,000-200,000 visitors a day, but only Ontario may reap the presumed benefits of revenues and structures; the fair looks to many as a bail out scheme for the faltering Ontario Speedway; the Expo will produce rampant commercial growth that may have no relationship to a city's general plan; and the temporary economic shot in the arm that the Expo may offer to this area will probably have lasting negative effects as many communities after the fair find themselves with dozens of empty motels and restaurants and even more people unemployed.

The needs of the entire east Los Angeles County-west San Bernardino County area should have been considered in the planning for Expo 81. Contrary to Mr. Lloyd's comments, there is very little comprehensive data on Expo 81. The development of Expo will affect this entire region and any planning should have been done with a consideration of the economic impact on the region, but also the social and environmental impact of the region.

At a recent public meeting sponsored by two Claremont organizations, the only public forum held on Expo 81 in the Ontario area, Bill Welch, vice president of the Expo 81 Corporation, apologized for not previously informing the public about Expo 81. He said at the taped meeting that the Department of Commerce had suggested to the Expo 81 promoters that they keep quiet about it until things were firmed up.

We certainly found "keeping quiet" the prevailing attitude as we tried to find information of Expo 81. The Draft Environmental Impact Statement was not even available to the public until a few days before the Bureau of International Expositions gave its Nov. 17 approval to the Exposition. Public hearings on the environmental impact of Expo 81 should be held as soon as possible in the Ontario area before Expo 81 can proceed.

The air quality of the Upland-Ontario area is the worst in the state of California and the levels of oxidants and particulate matter which reduce the visibility are poorest during the proposed time of Expo 81. The air quality in our area is too fragile to stand the demands of the number of visitors and the accompanying vehicular traffic.

It is no wonder that the financial picture of Expo 81 is rather cloudy. According to one Expo official, housing will need to be built — another official says housing is not necessary. One Expo official says that "front end" costs can all be financed privately and another official says that we will need a bond issue. Financial planning for Expo was done just as hastily and superficially as the rest of the planning for Expo 81 and local governments were not involved. Aside from the front end costs, what about the costs to surrounding local governments for such services as roads, police, and solid waste disposal.

Perhaps in this era of environmental concern and natural resource conservation we will have to face the fact that world expositions may be obsolete. Using far less total energy we can share the world's technology through television and the written word.

Who pays for oil spills?

WASHINGTON — With one oil tanker after another bleeding oil upon our seacoasts, the American people not only are stuck with the environmental blight but must also pay most of the clean-up costs.

The secret papers of the shipowners reveal how they bamboozled Congress in the late 1960s to absolve them from financial liability. They anticipated the nasty oil spillages, which have now polluted our shores. They lobbied behind the scenes, therefore, to make sure they wouldn't have to pay the damages.

In fact, they foresaw an environmental catastrophe, which hasn't yet happened. Some day, they expect a giant, 200,000-ton supertanker to break up and belch 50 million to 80 million gallons of oil into our coastal waters. This would be enough to stain the surf and blacken the beaches for hundreds of miles.

We began to investigate the oil industry's awesome power to pollute after the tanker Argo Merchant broke apart on a shoal off Nantucket and gushed more than seven million gallons of oil into a pounding sea.

We made trips out of state and out of the country to question oil insiders. We obtained documents in both English and Greek, proving that the international petroleum and shipping industries blocked the laws, which might have saved our coasts from the oil blight.

In Athens, Brussels, Lisbon, London, New York and Rome, according to these documents, international oil men, shippers and insurance moguls conspired privately as early as 1967 to thwart the U.S. antipollution bills.

They were worried about the inevitability of oil spills. The huge supertankers carried enough oil to contaminate an entire seacoast. These long, whale-shaped sea monsters were contructed of such thin steel for their size, warned the experts, that they would rip apart if they should ever run aground.

Members of Congress, forseeing the danger, began drafting some tough liability laws. This U.S. move could set a worldwide standard, which could raise insurance rates sky high or even make the supertankers uninsurable, the shipowners feared.

From their viewpoint, the most dangerous measures were introduced by Sen. Edmund Muskie, D.-Me., and Rep. Paul Rogers, D.-Fla. The bills would have assessed the clean-up costs to the industries that make a profit from oil.

The shipowners tracked these bills more carefully than they had ever monitored a storm at sea. "Prospects of the (Muskie) bill's passage . . . " warned one lobbyist gloomily, "are considered to be very good."

The shipping lobbyists were joined by the oil lobbyists. "The American Petroleum Institute will lobby to limit the liability of a shipowner," happily reported one agent to his Athens-based bosses.

Meanwhile, shippers and insurers met privately in Rome in late 1967 to consider the problem. This was followed four months later by another secret meeting in Lisbon. They finally agreed, according to a memo by one of the participants, to oppose "strict liability on shipowners for damage caused by the escape of oil."

They hoped to limit the liability of shipowners merely to a polite explanation. "The owner of a vessel from which oil has escaped, causing pollution, (should) explain how the oil was permitted to escape," it was proposed.

In case of a disastrous oil spill, in other words, the insurance-shipping crowd wanted to let the owners off with a simple account of the accident. It would be left to the victims to clean up the oily mess.

Representatives of the world insurance and shipping industries slipped up to Capitol Hill in July, 1968 to sell this idea to the House Public Works Committee. They paid a quiet call on Richard Sullivan, the chief counsel, who was processing the antipollution legislation.

"We were pleased to learn," one agent wrote back to his superiors, that Sullivan would "abandon" the idea of holding the shipowners and oil companies totally liable for their oil accidents. The lobbyists also "argued strenuously against (unlimited) liability for removal costs" of spilled oil. "Mr. Sullivan and his staff finally agreed," the memo reported triumphantly.

According to the document, Sullivan then "met separately with representatives of the American Petroleum Institute . . . Thereafter, another revision of the bill was prepared." This contained additional concessions.

Crowed one shipping representative: "We believe (the concessions) would accomplish as good a result as the shipowners and their (insurance) clubs could hope to achieve in any oil pollution bill which the United States Congress might pass." It should not, the memo added, "have any serious effect on the (insurance) premiums."

Yet even this limited antipollution measure was kept off the law books for two more years. It provided for a moderate boost in liability, with no real means for collecting on oil disasters.

In the last Congress, environmentalists tried once more to place more liability for oil spillages on the oil industry and the tanker fleets. But once again it was bottled up by the special interests.

Footnote: The able Sullivan, who was merely carrying out orders, told us he remembered the 1968 meetings. He admitted the memos made him "look like I was in somebody's pocket." But he insisted he had acted in what he thought was the public interest. "Maybe I should have been tougher," he said, sighing.

"DOLLARS AWEIGH": Naval auditors have turned up what they believe to be "improprieties" between the Navy and the SEACOR company on a series of helicopter carrier contracts.

We reported last February that a senior Navy project officer, J.J. West, had worked closely with SEACOR in his official capacity and then was hired by the firm a week after retiring. Both SEACOR and West denied any wrongdoing.

The Navy audit, dated September 23, makes no mention of the West case, but it does show how the brass hats bent the rules to give SEACOR unfair advantage over its competitors.

The firm was fed inside information, for example, prior to the award of a noncompetitive "sole source" contract. As added insurance that SEACOR would get the job, the Navy then violated its own regulations requiring that notice of the sole source contract be given to 14 other enginering companies.

Although SEACOR was certified as "uniquely qualified" for the contract, the auditors found that the Navy could have done the job itself and saved $100,000 and 11 months in the bargain.

The rules require that all sole source contracts over $100,000 be reviewed by a special board. To avoid the review, the Navy let two contracts to SEACOR, both of which were below $100,000.

Finally, the auditors found, 10 of the tasks assigned to SEACOR duplicated work already completed by another contractor.

Just in jest

I am a little late in reporting it but, "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus." — I personally saw his ruddy face mounted on the radiator of an 18-wheeler trailer truck. The driver of that rig was furiously tailgating me as I was serenely driving at the legal 55 miles per hour speed limit and, with blinking lights and sounding horn, wishing me a very merry Christmas.

* * *

Well so much for the dead past. Now, if you ask me, though I'm sure you don't intend to, I predict 1977 will be the year during which the Old South will rise again. All the IN-people will be demonstrating that fact by their sudden obsession with such things as hominy grits, gumbo, chitterlings, blue jeans, you-alls and carefully acquired Southern drawls.

Let me be one of the first to admit that I am not one of the Beautiful People who ushered in the New Year by sipping champagne from sparkling glasses. To establish that fact, I have only to report that instead of toying with champagne sloshing about in a crystal goblet, my social drinking activities were confined to imbibing beef from a pull-top can. But even we lowly beer guzzlers are sometimes capable of viewing the New Year in a golden haze of glorious ecstasy — Which is a lot cheaper than arriving at that state of euphoria on champagne.

Sacramento scene

Corraling the state agencies

By EARL G. WATERS

For whatever reason Senate President Pro Tem James Mills has got his back up. He is determined that the State Supreme Court should be compelled to relocate from its San Francisco headquarters to Sacramento. Despite the fact the law already for many years has required that Supreme Court justices shall reside and maintain their headquarters in Sacramento, Mills has authored yet another law to enforce the existing one.

Neither Mills nor anyone else can be impressed by Chief Justice Donald Wright's argument against such a move. He contends that locating the court in Sacramento would subject it to "a political atmosphere." One can only observe that any justice so spineless as to be tainted by rubbing elbows with legislators and the executive branch, doesn't belong on the court.

It can't help but stick in the craw to know that the justices who are the supreme word on the law, consider themselves above the law which explicitly provides for their headquarters. As bad as that is in itself, the effect of this has been to frustrate any attempts to control other state agencies which are also flouting the same law by headquartering outside the Capital City.

Mills, who represents San Diego, cannot be accused of "provincialism" as have other lawmakers elected from districts in Sacramento who have made efforts in the past to compel all state agencies to headquarter here. While there may have been one little smidgen of truth in the motivations charged to the local legislators, the accusations were grossly unfair to the solons and served only to badly mislead the public.

There are overwhelming reasons for all state operations to headquarter in one locale. These relate to efficiency and economy, as well as harmonious relationships through closer communications between the agencies which must work with each other.

Neither the judicial nor the executive branch can exist without legislative contact. And all state agencies must have almost daily exchange with certain executive branch functions such as the department of finance and state personnel board.

But above everything else the importance of the heads of all governmental entities being located in the Capital City is to insure their visibility to the public. It is here that a highly trained corps of governmental news reporters are maintained. They have the expertise to inter-relate the actions of one agency with another, one branch of government with the other two.

Mills should broaden his effort to include all state agencies. He might team up with Sacramento Sen. Al Rodda, now chairman of the powerful Senate Finance Committee. Several sessions ago Rodda made a reasonable proposal for this to be achieved in a 10-year period, giving all straying agencies ample time to plan their moves.

That, even for the Supreme Court, a time lag compliance must be granted is mandated by the fact space must be provided. At present the state is leasing more than two million square feet of office space in Sacramento. There is the contention that it is cheaper for the state to lease than to build. That may be but certain functions demand buildings only the state can erect and a Supreme Court building is one of those.

In addition to the space now leased other room would have to be found to bring errant headquarters back. In the long run it would be less costly for the state to build its own space. It now spends $835,000 a month in Sacramento for private office space, up from the $164,000 cost in 1970. Statewide it is spending $2.5 million a month for leased space. It could build an awesome amount for $30 million a year now spent in rent.

Ann Landers

How to get along with people

Dear Readers: I am happy to repeat this column at the request of readers from Phoenix, Montgomery, New Orleans, Springfield and Nassau.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS OF HOW TO GET ALONG WITH PEOPLE

1. Keep skid chains on your tongue; always say less than you think. Cultivate a low, persuasive voice. How you say it often counts more than what you say.

2. Make promises sparingly and keep them faithfully, no matter what it costs.

3. Never let an opportunity pass to say a kind and encouraging word to or about somebody. Praise good work, regardless of who did it. If criticism is needed, criticize helpfully, never spitefully.

4. Be interested in others; their pursuits, their work, their homes and families. Make merry with those who rejoice; with those who weep, mourn. Let everyone you meet, however humble, feel that you regard him as a person of importance.

5. Be cheerful. Don't burden or depress those around you by dwelling on your minor aches and pains and small disappointments. Remember, everyone is carrying some kind of a load.

6. Keep an open mind. Discuss but don't argue. It is a mark of a superior mind to be able to disagree without being disagreeable.

7. Let your virtues, if you have any, speak for themselves. Refuse to talk of another's vices. Discourage gossip. It is a waste of valuable time and can be extremely destructive.

8. Be careful of another's feelings. Wit and humor at the other person's expense are rarely worth it and may hurt when least expected.

9. Pay no attention to ill-natured remarks about you. Remember, the person who carried the message may not be the most accurate reporter in the world. Simply live so that nobody will believe them. Disordered nerves and bad digestion are a common cause of back-bitting.

10. Don't be too anxious about the credit due you. Do your best and be patient. Forget about yourself and let others "remember". Success is much sweeter that way.

Dear Ann: I could kiss you for your advice to "Mother Of Two Pluses and One Munus."

I am a middle child. My older sister (according to my parents) was "brilliant, sensitive and creative." My younger sister was "honest, sweet, kind and good." I was "moody, belligerent, willful and unmanageable." Mother called me "stupid" so often I thought it was my given name. My school work and social life were a disaster because of the emotional turmoil at home.

We all are grown now and here's the picture: My younger sister weighs nearly 300 pounds. My older sister dislikes my parents so intensely that when they come to visit, I'm the only one who will meet them at the plane and give them a place to stay. Neither of my sisters will have them over for a meal.

Do I like my parents? No. Do I forgive them? Yes. But it took many years of costly therapy. It's obvious who the losers are. And also quite sad. — The Middle One

Dear One: Many psychologists are coming to the conclusion that children who have had to cope with unhappiness develop into more resilient, productive adults than those who had a comfortable, carefree childhood. Your letter supports that theory.

Marmaduke

"Marmaduke! Stop dunking your dog biscuits in my coffee!"

L.M. Boyd

Did dolphins rescue them?

Almost 50 years ago, a story appeared in one of the more sensational Sunday supplements about a little girl who was rescued from drowning by a dolphin after she fell out of a boat off the coast of Australia. The deepsea animal reportedly bumped her along the surface all the way to shore. Most sophisticated readers regarded it as just another one of those nonsensical tales that originated at the time from exotic places where the facts could not be checked out. Another such yarn came along about 25 years ago. In this one, dolphins convoyed a strong swimmer through shark-infested waters to safety on Chile's shore. More recently, correspondents in South Africa say two dolphins turned up alongside a woman whose boat capsized in the Indian Ocean. She allegedly swam with their help, likewise as sharks circled, about 25 miles to a buoy. Can you buy any of these amazing accounts?

TWINS

Q. "How do you account for the fact that the percentage of twins worldwide is rising?"

A. A lot of premature twins, who previously might not have survived, are being saved now. And the surviving twins breed more twins.

Q. "You know what a dyspeptic is. Somebody who doesn't digest food readily. So what do you call somebody who's just the opposite?"

A. A eupeptic, says our Language man.

Q. "Where does Japan's Hirohito rank down the line on that lengthy list of the country's emperors?"

A. He's 124th in an unbroken dynasty that dates all the way back to 660 B.B.

GLANDS

Your stomach contains 35 million glands. Remember that, young lady, I don't want to have to tell you more than once. Or ever think about it again, for that matter.

Contrary to previous reports, deaths at railroad-highway crossings have been fewer and fewer in recent years. In 1966, there were 1,780. In 1975, down to 910. This date comes from a seasoned railroad man who points out that the lowering fatalities are particularly significant in light of the fact that so many more cars are on the road now.

It's technically possible right now to rig a new house electronically so it will never need to be dusted, mopped, vacuumed or whatever.

Dr. Miller

Don't warm up goldfish's water

DEAR DR. MILLER: The water in the goldfish tank is colder now. Since this has happened, I've noticed they're more sluggish and eat a lot less than they used to. Is this bad? Should I warm up the tank during the day so maybe they'll eat more then, or would it make any difference? — L.L.

DEAR L.L.: As your cold-blooded goldfish get colder and their metabolism drops correspondingly, they're bound to be increasingly sluggish. Once your "goldies" are geared to winter weather, and as long as it's well above freezing temperatures, they're better off left alone until the water can be gradually warmed and kept that way. Daily drastic temperature fluctuations would be dangerous, even downright deadly.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Prudence, our yellow-headed parrot, has been a prized family pet for ten years. Wife's after me to take her in to the hospital for a checkup. Is there any real sense to this when she looks perfectly healthy? Oh, the wife claims she's slowing down (Pru, that is), but I think that's all in her head (my wife's, that is). Is there any sense to dragging Pru in there just so the doctor can say she's OK? — W.Y.

DEAR W.Y.: Packing Pru off to the doctor for that checkup does make sense, because you don't KNOW he's not going to find a medical problem. Recognize that he can find a developing disease long before you can. Early treatment is likely to be more effective and less expensive. Even if the doctor finds no disease problem, he can probably practice parrot preventative medicine which may range from suggestions regarding environment to specific dietary changes or a simple supplement such as vitamins. Preventative medicine for any pet is preferrable to waiting until an obvious illness makes a trip mandatory. Waiting to be sure a trip to the doctor is really worthwhile may, unfortunately, mean it isn't because too often by then it's too late.

The dress is her dream

Mayva's a real winner. The other night she said, "You know that blue dress you bought a few years ago that was two sizes too small that you were going to diet down to? Well, I saw it the other night on the mother on Happy Days."

"What's that supposed to mean?" I asked.

"It means that dress has been in and out of style five times since you bought it."

"I didn't want to mention it," I said lowering my voice, "but there's something weird about that dress."

"Like what?"

"You'll think I'm crazy."

"Trust me."

"Okay, the truth is that dress is shriveling."

"You're crazy."

"I knew you'd say that. You didn't believe me when I had that fake fur coat that grew in the closet every summer."

"That was different," said Mayva.

"No it wasn't. You saw me hem it every single October. I put it away knee-length, but when I got it out again, it was always back to my ankles."

"I've never heard of a dress shrinking before." "I didn't say 'shrinking,' I said 'shriveling.' There's a difference. You know how I've been watching my weight. How many pounds would you say I've lost since I bought this dress?"

Mayva thought a moment. "Three hundred and seventy-two."

"Whatever. Well, I get the dress out every year and try it on. I tell you it's getting smaller."

"Can you wear it at all?" asked Mayva.

"Of course I can wear it. From one angle I actually look like Joey Heatherton."

"What angle is that?"

"Flat on my back with my arms outstretched."

"Look! Why don't you just get rid of the dress? You can't wear it and you're not going to. You just have to face up to that."

I jerked it out of her hand. "This dress is my Xanadu, my Miss America, my Pillsbury bake-off, my Academy Award, my Reader's Digest Sweepstakes — don't you understand, Mayva, it's my dream!"

"You know something? Mrs. Walton was wearing that same dress the other night."

Mayva's cruel.

Pellagra is a rare disease

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you tell me something about a disease called pellagra? Does it cause the mouth to be sore? What causes it? Is there any cure?

DEAR READER — Pellagra is a rare disease in our society. It is a good example of how our nutrition has improved over the past 50 years.

Pellagra was widespread among the poor in the United States in the 1930s, particularly in the South. It is a vitamin deficiency caused by lack of niacin in the diet. People who subsist on a corn diet are particularly apt to get it. Much of the world escapes pellagra because the people eat corn and beans in combination, and the beans provide sufficient niacin and protein to prevent pellagra.

Pellagra has been known to exist for at least 250 years. An old dermatology book from my library refers to it as a disease from fermented maize (corn), and notes it was especially common in the chronically insane (no doubt some of the insane were that way because of the pellagra). The text goes on to state that of 258 cases in the Peoria State Hospital, 50 per cent died. We now know that pellagra is aused by a lack of niacin. Niacin and other vitamins were not even known to exist when that text was written in 1923. I mention this only to point out that despite all the concern about our modern food, our nutrition is far superior to what it was a short 50 years ago.

Yes, it can make your tongue sore, but so can other vitamin deficiencies and other diseases. A person with pernicious anemia may develop a sore tongue.

Pellagra causes a wide variety of symptoms, including skin changes, usually of the parts exposed to the sun, inflammation of the lining of the mouth and entire digestive system — which leads to diarrhea and weight loss. It can cause psychic and emotional disorders including hallucinations. It is an outstanding example of how nutrition can be a factor in mental diseases.

Niacin is essential in forming enzymes that the cells use in complex chemical reactions to metabolize your food. The disease is still found in some parts of the world where the people live on corn and corn products and have a protein deficient diet.

You can cure or prevent the disease by eating a healthy diet. A diet with enough good proteins is important. Niacin is in enriched flour and bread making it almost impossible for anyone who eats bread to become deficient in niacin and develop pellagra. Niacin is found in lean meats, poultry, liver, whole wheat cereals, peanuts and mature bean seeds. Anyone who takes a standard daily vitamin preparation which you can buy in most grocery stores will not have pellagra.

Balanced diets certainly are important to your health and will prevent a host of illnesses. To give you more information on what is included in a balanced diet I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-6, Balanced Diet, Recommended Daily Dietary Allowances (RDA). Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

What people say

"Worse than dogs these days are the growls of people. People these days are actually shooting at us if we are late with their welfare checks."

About this, that

Early 19th-century slang for the shilling in England and Ireland was the hog. To spend all one's money in one place was to go "whole hog."

Few spiders live more than two years, and the males, who die soon after mating, rarely survive even one.

Reptiles eat little in relation to their body weight. They get most of the heat they need from outside their bodies — by basking in the sun, for instance.

A scanning electron microscope can magnify objects as much as 100,000 times.

For Friday, Jan. 14, 1977

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're not looking for what you can get in return, but don't go overboard for one who never reciprocates. Unnecessary heartaches will result.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Give your associates credit today for having at least as much common sense as you do. Close scrutiny might show their ideas are even better than yours!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You can be of great help today to a pal who doesn't know how to manage the good things she has at hand. Step in. Offer a few pointers.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Just because someone has a high-sounding title, it doesn't necessarily follow their advice is the best. A person of lesser rank may offer you more wisdom.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) The temptation will be great today to play the game of one-upmanship with a boastful person. Stand tall. Espouse humility.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22) Be very careful today what you sign, especially if it's of a legal nature or something that obligates you later.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 23) Your material prospects look very good today, but one you're closely associated with could deplete what you acquire faster than you take it in.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22) Your judgment is a bit keener than your mate's today, so don't be overly influenced by his or her opinion. Be tolerant, but see to it that your ideas prevail.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21) Responsibilities should not be taken lightly today. Honor your promises. Live up to that which is expected of you.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19) Being with friends is important today, but if the group is too large it takes the edge off your enjoyment. Confine your companions to a select few.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 19) Timing is crucial for you today. You don't want to tip your hand prematurely. Keep your heavy ammunition in reserve till it is needed.

PISCES (Feb 20-March 20) Ask questions if something complicated is being explained and you don't understand at first. Just because you didn't grasp it quickly is no disgrace.

Jacoby's bridge

Hand decided team match

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Here is a hand that decided a team match when the declarer at one table and a defender at the other went wrong.

NORTH 13
♠ 10 4 2
♥ A Q 6
♦ K 10 7 5
♣ 7 5 2

WEST
♠ K Q 8 7 3
♥ 10 7 2
♦ 6 3
♣ A 6 3

EAST
♠ 9 5
♥ 9 8 5 4 3
♦ Q J 2
♣ K 8 4

SOUTH (D)
♠ A J 6
♥ K J
♦ A 9 8 4
♣ Q J 10 9

Both vulnerable

West	North	East	South
			1 N. T.
Pass	3 N. T.	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead — 7 ♠

Both South players arrived at the normal three-no-trump contract. Both Wests opened the seven of spades and both declarers won with the jack.

At table one South promptly planked down the queen of clubs. West played low and East was in with the king. East led his last spade to clear the suit and declarer could only come to eight tricks.

At the other table South led his jack of hearts to dummy's queen and played the deuce of clubs. East played low and South's queen took care of West's ace. This left West with no way to bring home his last two spades. South ran off with his game contract with three diamonds and two tricks in each of the other suits.

East criticized his partner's opening lead and it is quite true that if West had opened any suit except spades South's contract would almost surely have wound up in the ashcan, but East was the real culprit. All he had to do was to hop up with his king of clubs when the suit was led and knock out the ace of spades while West was still in control of the club suit.

Ask the Jacobys

Here is another question about a revoke. This reader wants to know if the penalty must be claimed at the first opportunity.

The answer is that it may be claimed at any time before the score for the hand has been agreed on. On the other hand, it is best to establish your claim immediately since otherwise there may be an argument about whether or not a revoke has actually been committed.

International Food Fair is slated Saturday

The International Students Organization of Loma Linda University is sponsoring its second annual International Food Fair on Saturday.

The fair, open to the public, will feature foods of nearly 30 nations.

Food items and souvenirs will be sold beginning at 6 p.m. in Gentry Gymnasium on the Loma Linda campus. A family feature film, "Cry of the Wild," will be shown at 7:30 p.m.

A donation of 50 cents per person is being requested for admission. There is no charge for the movie.

All proceeds from the food fair will benefit the Dr. Harry W. Miller International Student Fund. Named for the late physician who died Jan. 1 at the age of 97, the fund provides educational loans to international students attending Loma Linda University.

Dr. Miller's professional career included nearly 40 years as a medical missionary to China. He also dedicated many years to nutrition research, specializing in the development of soybean food products.

About 450 students or 12 per cent of the Loma Linda University student body are from 80 countries outside the United States.

Two now set for retirement

C.B. radio and golf will fill the retirement of George A. Montgomery and Elbert L. "Lee" Kearney now that they have ended careers with Southern Service Co., Pomona.

The men were honored at a retirement dinner recently at Red Hill Country Club by their coworkers and families from headquarters of the utility and plant managers representing the nine company plants.

Two retirees, Ed Genung and Blaine Weaver, reminisced of their early days with the company.

Fellow employes presented Montgomery the radio and Kearney a set of golf clubs. Both received letters of commendation from Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., and resolutions of appreciation for "outstanding service" from the company board of directors.

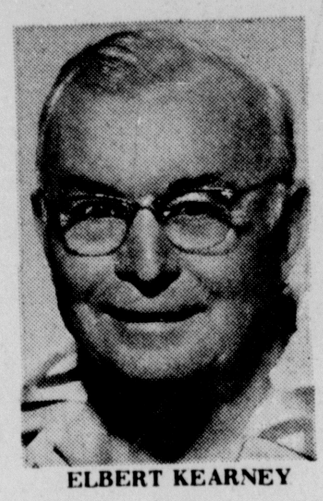

Montgomery began his career with the company 49 years ago in the garage at 50 cents an hour. Later, he was put in charge of painting vehicles. He helped design the Blue Seal logo and develop color combinations for delivery trucks.

Kearney began 47 years ago in the garage at 60 cents an hour. He later went to the paint crew then became chief mechanic, a position he held 27 years.

He was made shop superintendent in 1958.

LVC offers doctoral program seminar

A seminar for school administrators who are candidates in the La Verne College doctoral program is being offered at the college Friday through Jan. 23.

"Doctoral Program in School Management" seminar is only one part of the doctoral program at La Verne which addresses itself to the need for competent, creative managers in the field of school administration.

Armen Sarafian, president of La Verne College is the keynote speaker the first night of the seminar.

Seminar theme is "Organizational Theory" and "Research Design and Measurements." These topics will be covered by speakers Leland Newcomer, superintendent of Grossmont Union High School District; Wilber Dale Hawkins, superintendent of Brighton Public Schools; and Dr. Donald Francis Muhich, president of Affiliated Behavioural Consultants.

Doctoral program goals emphasize three major areas; effective management skills, reliance on principles of democratic administration and ability to cope with change within the educational setting.

The total program requires a minimum time commitment of three years, but candidates are allowed eight years from the date if initial registration to complete the program.

Open door offers drug education program

The Pomona Open Door plans to offer a program in drug education and personal awareness, which will include group discussions, outside speakers and educational seminars.

The program will present drug information, explore viable alternatives to the use of drugs, and provide information on current laws concerning the possession and abuse of drugs.

Topics covered will include: "The Physical and Psychological Effects of Drugs"; "Attitudes, Motives, and Alternatives to Drug Involvement"; and "Drug Abuse and the Courts."

Group sessions will be held each Tuesday, starting next week, from 9:30 to 11 a.m., and each Thursday, starting Jan. 27, from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

The Pomona Open Door is a non-profit organization serving the valley with programs in drug education and counseling, youth recreation and diversion, and family and individual counseling.

TED LYMAN

Former area hotel manager elected chief of the CHMA

Ted Lyman, former manager of the Uplander Motor Hotel in Upland, has been elected president of the California Hotel and Motel Association.

Lyman, 40, has served on the CHMA executive committee for the past five years and has been a member of the organizations board of directors for 10 years. CHMA, headquartered in Sacramento, is primarily concerned with legislation and regulations affecting the hotel and motel industry. The California association is affiliated with the American Hotel and Motel Association.

Lyman was manager of the Uplander Motor Hotel from 1961 to 1973. Since 1973 he has been general manager of the 400-stateroom Hyatt Hotel aboard the Queen Mary in Long Beach.

Son of a Long Beach attorney, he attended Wilson High School in Long Beach and Pomona College. While living and working in Upland, he was president of the Rotary Club and the Chamber of Commerce.

St. Lucy's gym, center campaign to be explained

A campaign to build a multipurpose gym and a cultural center at St. Lucy's Priory High School in Glendora will be explained at a meeting Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the school's foyer.

Sister Theresa Schueren, director of development, said the Rev. John V. Sneeringer will speak.

He is the originator of the program, called Building a Scholastic Heritage (BASH) which will begin at a dinner party and auction in May.

Sister Francita, principal, said interested adults are invited to attend the Friday kick-off to meet members of the development fund. Directors are Herbert Naish and Robert Fryke, chairmen, and Paul Diemert, procurement chairman.

Items are being collected now for the auction. All gifts are tax deductible. Pick-up service is available at 213 963-0017.

Suit charges Navy with religious interference

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The U.S. Navy is being asked to stop interfering with free exercise of religion in a suit filed by a follower of the Sikh faith discharged after wearing a turban with his uniform.

The suit filed in U.S. District court Monday by Ronald B. Sherwood seeks his reinstatement, a damage award of more than $10,000 and a definition of the legal meaning of Navy uniform rules.

Sherwood, who joined the Navy in 1970 and took his religious vows four years later, contends his court martial for refusing to remove the turban and subsequent discharge were arbitrary and violate freedom of religion.

The suit said the Army and other military organizations around the world recognize the right of members of the religion not to cut their hair and to wear turbans.

CIW guard receives an award

Jim Roberts, a correctional officer at the California Institution for Women near Chino, has received the "outstanding officer award" for December in a new incentive program.

The program was developed to stimulate increased efficiency and encourage development and use of a high level of professionalism among the prison's officers.

To promote job efficiency, each officer is inspected in his or her work area on the quality of work and the ability to meet or surpass set standards and objectives.

The officer with the most inspection points receives the "outstanding officer" award.

Associate Supt. Allen Brown Sr. presented Roberts the award.

Missile developed at G.D. successfully fired at sea

A high speed jet drone has been destroyed by a direct hit in the first at-sea firing of Standard Missile-2 Medium Range by U.S. Navy personnel using the AEGIS shipboard weapons system aboard USS Norton Sound.

The successful firing of the SM-2 (MR) developed by General Dynamics plant in Pomona proved the compatibility of the RCA developed AEGIS shipboard system and SM-2. It validated AEGIS's advanced guidance system in which the missile's midcourse guidance is handed over during flight to terminal homing for final target intercept.

This evolutionary innovation, using an inertial reference unit on board the missile, and advances in communication link techniques, enables the missile to intercept targets at greater distances and altitudes than Standard Missile-1.

The SM-2 (MR) firing took place on the Navy's Pacific Missile Test Range from USS Norton Sound, a test ship for advanced weapons.

The success of SM-2 (MR) closely follows recent at-sea tests of Standard Missile-2 Extended Range conducted on USS Wainwright.

Standard Missile-2 uses the same airframe and propulsion system developed for SM-1. Since its introduction, General Dynamics has delivered over 7,000 SM-1s to the U.S. Navy and navies of allied nations.

General Dynamics plant in Pomona is a developer and producer of tactical missiles and tactical weapons systems for the U.S. Armed Forces and those of allied nations. Its products include the Standard Missile-1, Standard Missile-2, Sparrow, and Standard ARM missiles, the Redeye, Stinger, and Viper man-portable air and armor defense systems, and the Phalanx close-in ship defense gun system.

Commission chairman resigns

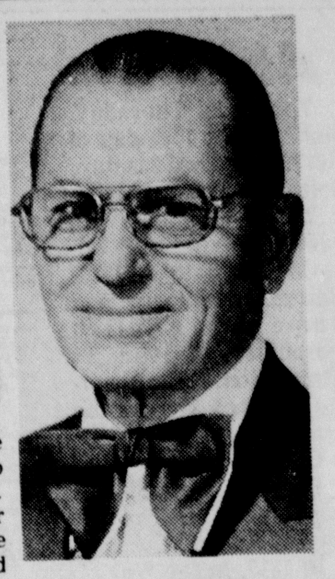

Jim Johns, chairman of the Chino Planning Commission, has resigned from the commission because of business commitments.

Johns' recent promotion in his job with General Telephone Co. will require him to be away from the Chino area for extended periods of time, he said. Thus, he would be unable to devote enough time to the commission, he noted.

He had been a member of the commission since 1974 and was named chairman in February, 1976.

Almanac

Today is Thursday, Jan. 13, the 13th day of 1977. There are 352 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1733, James Oglethorpe and some 130 English colonists arrived at Charleston, S.C., to settle in what is now the state of Georgia.

On this date —

In 1419, the English captured the French city of Rouen.

In 1813, in the War of 1812, the British blockaded Chesapeake and Delaware Bays.

In 1848, Canada's Vancouver Island was acquired by Hudson's Bay Company.

In 1864, the American composer Stephen Foster died penniless in New York's Bellevue Hospital.

In 1915, an earthquake in central Italy killed 30,000 people.

In 1935, the Saar voted to return to Germany after being administered by France under League of Nations supervision.

Ten years ago: Military leaders in the African country of Togo seized power in a bloodless coup.

Five years ago: Army officers overthrew the civilian government in Ghana.

One year ago: Japan indicated it was ready to sign a World War II peace treaty with mainland China.

Today's birthday: Entertainer Ralph Edwards is 64.

Thought for today: Worse than a quitter is the person who is afraid to begin. — Anonymous.

Panel to study tort laws

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislative leaders have named 10 lawmakers to a committee they say will attempt to find a way to slow down increasing lawsuits, larger awards and bigger insurance costs.

Assemblyman John Knox, D-Richmond, who will be chairman, said Tuesday it will be the first major effort in the nation to reform the 400-year-old tort system.

"Last year's medical malpractice insurance crisis was just the tip of the iceberg," Knox said. "Cities, school districts and other governmental entities are finding it almost impossible to get liability insurance at any cost. Manufacturers are being hit with huge increases for insurance to cover defects in their products."

Sen. Robert Beverly, R-Manhattan Beach, will be vice chairman of the committee.

On the committee will be Assemblymen Richard Hayden, R-Sunnyvale; Alister McAlister, D-San Jose; Floyd Mori, D-Pleasanton, and Bruce Nestande, R-Orange, and Senators Ray Johnson, R-Chico; Newton Russell, R-Glendale; Alfred Song, D-Monterey Park, and Bob Wilson, D-La Mesa.

Appointed controller considered

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A review of the city controller's office has been initiated by Councilman Zev Yaroslavsky, possibly signaling a move to make the office a non-elective one.

Yaroslavsky, chairman of the council's Charter and Administrative Code Committee, said in a motion that "modern methods for fiscal management and control appear to make retention of an independent, elected controller no longer necessary."

The review could be a first step in putting before the voters a proposal for an appointed controller.

State's pot arrests down from year ago

SACRAMENTO (AP) — In California the marijuana smokers are probably breathing a little easier these days.

Statistics released by the state's Department of Justice show Californians ran less of a chance of being arrested last year for marijuana possession than they did the year before.

The state Office of Narcotics and Drug Abuse said this week that marijuana possession arrests of adults dropped 47 per cent when comparing the first half of 1975 and the first half of 1976.

The drop meant only 13,000 adults were arrested in the first half of 1976 compared to 24,000 adults in the first six months of 1975. Juvenile arrests showed a 15 per cent drop to 10,700.

Marijuana possession became a misdemeanor punishable by a maximum fine of $100 on Jan. 1, 1976. Prior to that marijuana possession could be prosecuted as a felony or misdemeanor.

Californians also are accepting the new law very well, according to poll commissioned by the drug office, state officials said.

"From our findings here, it doesn't seem like marijuana is that much of an emotional issue any more," the drug office's Kenneth Budman told the San Fancisco Examiner in an account published Sunday.

There's more to choosing a low-tar cigarette than just picking a number.

Any low-tar cigarette will give you a low-tar number. But there's something else that you should consider. We call it "filter feedback."

As you smoke, tar builds up on the tip of your cigarette filter. That's "filter feedback." Ordinary flush-tipped filters put that tar build-up flat against your lips.

And that's where low-tar Parliament has the advantage. Parliament's filter is recessed to keep tar buildup from touching your lips. So there's no "filter feedback." All you get is that smooth Parliament taste.

'72 merger of State Health Dept. held a failure

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The 1972 merger that created the huge and troubled state Health Department has been a failure, says Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post.

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. says he will give "careful consideration" to Post's recommendation to break up the department. Brown's health director, Dr. Jerome Lackner, has said the department should be split up.

Post, the legislature's respected nonpartisan fiscal adviser, also said Tuesday that he would propose alternatives to Brown's $480-million property tax relief plan.

Post said his proposals would include state takeover of administration and financing of $250 million a year in county court costs.

He agreed with Brown that the governor's proposals can be financed without a general tax increase, but said the legislature should consider other plans.

The Health Department has been hit by reports of questionable deaths in state hospitals, allegations of mismanagement of prepaid health plans and homemaker-chore services, rising Medi-Cal costs, and criticisms of Lackner's administration.

Brown, who recently named veteran administrator Ray Procunier to run most health programs under Lackner, said he has been listening to other proposals to change the department.

"For several months my staff has been evaluating alternatives to the present complexity of the state Department of Health," Brown said in a statement. "In the weeks ahead, we will incorporate Mr. Post's suggestions in our overall view."

Post said the department, which directs $4.3 billion a year in health programs, is too big to be managed as a single unit.

"In 1972, we concurred with the proposal to consolidate the then-existing departments of Public Health, Mental Hygiene, Health Care Services, and the social services function of the Department of Social Welfare," Post told the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

"The consolidation has proven to be a substantial failure. Therefore, we think we ought to admit our mistakes and take corrective action."

On other subjects, Post, whose recommendations traditionally carry great weight in the legislature, said:

INSURANCE — "The state is feeling the same pressures as other consumers in terms of insurance costs. The budget shows a 340 per cent increase in the state's tort liability insurance premiums, from about $273,000 to $1.2 million" in the coming fiscal year.

PAY — There is no satisfactory explanation for offering state employes raises below the inflation rate when the budget has a large surplus.

CCC — Brown's California Conservation Corps, which is budgeted for an increase from $9.3 million to $13.1 million, is off to a poor start. "It should be noted that the program, especially site locations, is not on schedule and that performance is disappointing compared to original goals."

Watergate footnote

Nixon tried to shame him, says Richardson

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a footnote to the history of Watergate, Elliot L. Richardson discloses that then-President Richard M. Nixon sought to shame him into abandoning, or delaying, his resignation as attorney general in 1973.

Richardson, who quit office rather than obey Nixon's order to fire Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox, also says he believes the former president, and his White House staff chief, Gen. Alexander Haig, exaggerated dangers of an American-Soviet military confrontation "to shake my resolve" to quit.

The drama that became known as the "Saturday Night Massacre" was enacted on Oct. 20, 1973, when Arab and Israeli forces were locked in combat and American and Soviet authorities were bracing.

Richardson confirmed in an interview this week that after he refused to fire Cox and instead submitted his resignation, he was asked by Nixon to do one of two things: either, in view of the national emergency then existing, not to resign at all, or to defer his resignation until the emergency with the Soviets had passed.

Richardson related that his meeting that night with Nixon at the White House was low-keyed but tense with a lot left unsaid.

According to one new account, Nixon told him that to delay his resignation would be to serve the national interest. Richardson then replied in so many words: "You, Mr. President, should have thought of that before."

Asked in the interview if this account was accurate Richardson responded: "Well, that's approximately correct."

Richardson, commerce secretary in President Ford's outgoing administration, then went into greater detail: "He (Nixon) said to me in effect he regretted that I did not see fit to put the national interest ahead of my personal commitments.

"I replied to him with some force that I believed that what I was doing was in the national interest."

At this point Richardson recalled that Nixon then remarked: "Evidently we do not perceive the national interest in the same way."

Grower holding back a million pounds

Here's one reason for scarcity, rising price in coffee market

(EDITOR'S NOTE— Amid reports of a sharp drop in the world's coffee supply, one farmer who escaped the 1975 frost that killed a large part of the crop in Brazil has more than a million pounds of coffee beans stored in a barn. He has no plans to sell now, even with prices at record-high levels. The following dispatch tells why.)

By RICHARD W. FOSTER
Associated Press Writer

ASSAI, Brazil (AP) — On Julio Koguishi's 1,000-acre coffee plantation here a weather-beaten wooden barn with a rusty metal hinge holds 8,000 bags of unhusked coffee beans.

Each bag weighs 60.5 kilograms — 133.1 pounds each or 1,064,800 pounds in all — and at current prices the beans, grown in 1975, are worth about $1.92 million on the world market.

If he sold his coffee, Koguishi would receive $830,400 after taxes, insurance, freight and handling, but not including labor and other costs that run him $71,500 a year.

Koguishi is not selling.

"I'll wait until the price goes up," said the 43-year old son of Japanese immigrants.

Unlike other farmers in this area, stricken by Brazil's worst frost 18 months ago, Koguishi continues to grow coffee. Other farmers, fearing another frost, have planted wheat and soybeans. The valleys here in Parana State were once the pride of Brazil's coffee industry but there is little coffee now.

"Coffee will come back here some day," Koguishi said. "It will take time but it will come back. It's the only way we Brazilians can make any money."

The Brazilian government says it has no idea how many farmers are holding back coffee as Koguishi is doing. But whenever the tax goes up on coffee exports, as it has in Brazil, more and more farmers hold back supplies to await higher prices, according to trade experts.

Experts in London, a coffee-trading center, say there is a shortage of top-quality coffees such as those grown in Brazil but normal supplies of low-quality types. These experts attribute the upsurge in coffee prices, up to $3 a pound in the United States, to the Brazilian frost that killed 70 per cent of the nation's two billion coffee trees.

Koguishi estimates his average annual gross income over the past 10 years from coffee sales to be $115,500 with a net of $44,000.

What about the $1.92 million worth of coffee in the barn?

Under Brazil's system of coffee export taxes, increased more than 300 per cent since the frost in July 1975, Koguishi is prevented from realizing the full value of the coffee's skyrocketing world price. For every bag he now exports for $240 he must pay the government $100. Before the frost this export tax was only $30.

In addition to the export tax there is a merchandise tax, amounting to $30 a bag, freight and bagging costs of $1.20 per bag, and a social security contribution for rural farm workers of $5 a bag. That leaves Koguishi with $103.80 — less labor and other costs — for each of the bags he has stored in his barn.

He said he thinks they will soon be worth more than the 80 cents or so a pound he now gets after taxes and handling costs.

"There's a world shortage," he added. "Demand is greater than supply and nothing is going to stop that price from going up."

Koguishi sells his coffee through a producer's cooperative here which markets the beans through the offices of several large multinational firms in Londrina, the commercial center 40 miles west of here and 300 miles west of Sao Paulo.

Unlike other plantation owners who live in Londrina and leave operations to managers, Koguishi stays on his land, squeezing every cent out of coffee beans, because he wants to buy more land.

"This area is going to continue to be important in Brazil and it will continue to produce coffee," he said. "I am going to use the money that's left over to buy land."

He pointed to an aerial photograph of his farm. Beyond the farm's boundaries it showed several thousands acres of land planted in soybeans and corn, stretching out toward a range of hills.

"I'd like to see coffee planted there someday," Koguishi said. "That's my ambition."

Cite computer medical record vulnerability

WASHINGTON (AP)—Recalling Watergate abuses of privacy rights, a government report warned Wednesday that computerized medical records are vulnerable to misuse by those who have no right to see them.

In state after state, the report found that health-care agencies moved to safeguard the confidential rights of patients only where civil liberties groups have gone to court. The 382-page report was written by Alan F. Westin of Columbia University based upon an investigation sponsored by the National Bureau of Standards.

In New York, Westin's report found that the state Department of Mental Hygiene for more than three years required that detailed personal information on patients at state mental health institutions be punched into a statewide computer system.

Each person's computer record would include such items as suicidal thoughts, sexual problems, anti-social behavior and drug use.

The patients' records would be available, with some controls, to doctors, courts, missing persons' agencies, police and Medicare and Medicaid administrators all over New York state, the report said.

After a lengthy court battle, New York state won the right to retain its centralized records system, which remains in use.

In Missouri, the state attempted to require all public and private hospitals to provide detailed information on hospital discharges. That data was to be fed into a computer so that state health officials could "study the prevalence and control of disease in Missouri."

After similar questions were raised about the program's legality, it was made voluntary.

Similar attempts to gather centralized medical information on individuals have been made in several states including Michigan, Washington and California. The report noted heightened public sensitivity to computer abuse since the Watergate scandals exposed misuse of Internal Revenue Service records and wiretapping and bugging.

Westin singled out the aborted attempt by White House employes to burglarize the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist in search of medical records which could be used against him.

Westin's researchers visited six major health-care agencies including the Los Angeles County Medical Center. At the center, they said they found widespread potential for abuse of medical records.

For example, anyone knowing how to use one of 100 computer terminals could obtain detailed information of the medical problems of patients in nine different Los Angeles hospitals.

Despite the report's warnings about computer abuse, it found that most actual violations of patient rights had occurred where doctors, nurses or health administrators failed to adequately store and disseminate old-fashioned printed records.

Nonetheless, the investigators said the potential for computer abuse grows worse daily. "Most computerized health data systems are being created or expanded without sufficient consultation in advance with groups representing citizens' rights and doctor-patient interest, and without some kind of proceeding open to the general public," the report said.

It said most medical computer programs are being created without regard to how much confidental information is really needed.

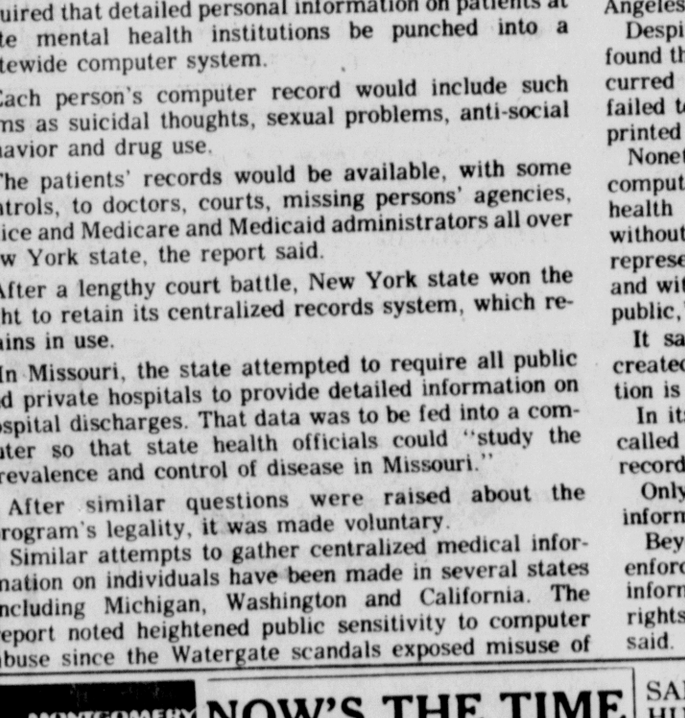

In its most controversial recommendation, the report called for broad access by patients to their own medical records, whether held by a doctor or a hospital.

Only medical files with the most sensitive psychiatric information should be withheld from patients, it said.

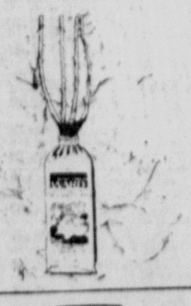

Beyond that, whenever insurance companies, law enforcement agencies, or any institution seeks medical information, the patient should be informed of his or her rights and given control of its dissemination, the report said.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT EFFECT ON THE ENVIRONMENT COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT
City of Pomona
505 S. Garey Avenue
Pomona, California 91766
714-620-2051

TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:

The above-named City proposes to request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to release Federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-383) to be used for the following projects during the 1976-1977 program year:

DEMOLITION OF SUBSTANDARD BUILDINGS ($55,000)
To reduce number of substandard and unsafe vacant buildings without placing hardship on owner of property.

BEAUTIFICATION ($285,000)
Improvements to public right-of-way which will beautify and enhance economic vitality of urban land.

STREET LIGHTING ($120,000)
Installation of street lights in areas where lighting deficiences exist.

CODE ENFORCEMENT ($30,370)
Scheduled for deteriorated or deteriorating areas in which such enforcement together with public improvements and services to be provided, may be expected to arrest the decline of the area.

COMMUNITY SERVICE CENTER ($100,000)
Provide permanent facilities within particular neighborhoods for youth programs, club meetings and other neighborhood recreational activities.

HISTORIC PRESERVATION ($30,000)
Preservation and restoration of historic pioneer home sites.

COORDINATION OF HOUSING PROGRAM ($50,000)
Monitor abandoned housing inventory, refer persons with emergency housing needs, and other related activities to coordinate housing rehabilitation program, monitor Section 23 units with Los Angeles County Housing Authority.

PUBLIC WORKS IMPROVEMENT ($25,000)
Construction of paving, curb and gutter installations at no cost to senior citizen property owners where an assessment would otherwise be made.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT PLAN IMPLEMENTATION ($15,000)
Devise programs, activities and ordinances to meet the goals and objectives; evaluate progress of such programs; carry out management coordination and monitoring of activities necessary for effective planning implementation.

GRANTS MATCHING FUND ($20,000)
Payment of non-Federal share required with a Federal Grant-in-Aid program undertaken as part of Community Development Program.

ADMINISTRATIVE ($87,700)
Covers grant contract administration, auditing services, and costs incurred in soliciting public input related to grant application.

CONTINGENCIES ($78,930)
Covers cost overrides on approved projects; addition of eligible projects not yet defined.

It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and, accordingly, the above-named City has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190).

The reason for such decision not to prepare such Statement are as follows:

With the exception of the Beautification, Code Enforcement and Community Service Center projects, Matching Funds and Contingencies which will all require further assessment of potential impact when plans are specifically defined, all projects listed above have been reviewed in detail by the Planning Commission of the City of Pomona and have been found to have no significant effect on the environment.

An Environmental Review Record respecting the within projects has been made by the above named City which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the above address and is available for public examination and copying, upon request at the Planning counter in the City Hall Lobby, 505 South Garey Avenue, Pomona, Calif., between the hours of 8:15 and 5:15 weekdays.

No further environmental review of such project is proposed to be conducted, prior to the request for release of Federal funds.

All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the City to the Office of the City Administrator. Such written comments should be received on or before January 28, 1977. All such comments so received will be considered and the City will not request the release of Federal funds or take any administrative action on the within project prior to the date specified in the preceding sentence.

Getting to know you

Some $28.3 billion was spent on advertising in 1975, up more than $1.5 billion from 1974. Newspapers continued to get the largest share of advertising dollars ($8.4 billion), followed by television ($5.3 billion), the Conference Board observes. Magazines, however, slipped last year; they received $39 million less than in 1974.

Medical care, potted plants

77 men and women eligible for congress' fringe benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seventy-seven men and two women are now eligible to borrow tax-nurtured potted plants, receive free outpatient medical care and use a swimming pool in the building where they work.

The reason: they were sworn in last Tuesday as members of Congress.

Interviews with a sampling of the freshman lawmakers indicate they have a mixed reaction to the perquisites of a member of Congress, which also include such things as loans of government-owned art reproductions.

Rep. John J. Cavanaugh, D-Neb., sees the taxpayer-supplied benefits as "a danger to any person who comes here, and a danger to which many succumb.

"As the pressures mount on your time, these conveniences become necessities and you can come to view it as almost a natural right that you should have a special parking place, a special elevator and be deferred to all the time," said Cavanaugh, a 30-year-old former state legislator. "Unless you are able to keep things in perspective, you can lose sight of the effect of your legislative actions and of inflation on people."

Rep. Robert K. Dornan, R-Calif., also expressed reservations about the fringe benefits of office.

"Congress will never discipline itself, so the president should appoint a no-nonsense committee, which accurately describes to the taxpayers exactly how bad the situation is and then test the constitutionality of an executive order putting a lid on growth of privileges," Dornan said.

But Rep. Norm Dicks, D-Wash., took a different view: "I don't think it's going to change my own perspective or view on things."

Dicks, a former University of Washington football player, especially defended the House and Senate gymnasiums, which are complete with steam rooms, swimming pools and saunas. Women have a separate facility but use the men's pool.

"People who try to stay fit are going to do a better job, and there is a real vacuum of places to get exercise in Washington," Dicks said. "The only thing they've got is a kind of old broken down YMCA."

Tennessee's new Democratic Sen. James Sasser agreed. "I don't think the minor emoluments of office are going to turn my head," he said.

These emoluments include outpatient medical care by Capitol physicians; foreign travel for stated official purposes, with wives often going along for "protocol reasons" and funeral expenses for members who die in office.

Only members of the congressional leadership are entitled to their own chauffeured limousines, but Senate Sergeant-at-Arms Nordy Hoffman told senators-elect at a pre-session meeting to "just call my office" if they needed one.

"We might use it if it is the most expeditious way to get official business done," said Sen. Harrison H. Schmitt, R-N.M. Schmitt, a former astronaut, said officials he knew in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration "used the limousine as a way to get work done away from the telephone."

For some lawmakers who are veterans of public office, coming to Congress will actually mean giving up some of their tax-paid privileges.

Take Democratic Sen. Wendell Anderson for instance. As governor of Minnesota, he had his own chauffeured car and lived in an official residence, all paid for by the state.

By succeeding Vice President-elect Walter Mondale in the Senate, Anderson gave all this up and will have to drive to and from his Washington apartment in his own station wagon.

But Anderson can borrow reproductions from the National Gallery of Art at no cost to hang in his office, get free plants from the U.S. Botanical Gardens for office use and perhaps have his hair cut free.

Senate Secretary Francis Valeo said the long-standing practice of free trims in the Senate barber shop, where each member has his own private shaving mug, may be discontinued. If so, he said, senators will have to pay the going rate.

Under a federal law all members of Congress, regardless of age, are entitled, along with other federal employes, to $45,000 worth of life insurance for $321 per year. They become vested in the federal pension plan after five years.

Both these provisions drew the fire of newly elected Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz.

"I am taking advantage of them because they are there, but I would vote to take them away," DeConcini said. He said both programs should be made comparable with those in private industry.

DeConcini also argued that the subsidized Senate dining room should raise its prices and "run on a profit basis or very close to it."

None of the lawmakers contacted, regardless of their views, said they planned to turn any of the benefits down.

"After all," said Cavanaugh, "I would find it difficult not to ride in the members' elevator or not to park in the members' parking lot."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Convicted Watergate conspirators who are seeking pardons have an advocate in Sen. Barry Goldwater.

"If he (President Ford) pardoned Nixon, I see no reason why he shouldn't pardon the others. I think all these men received sentences way, way out of line with what they did ... We even now don't know what went on and won't know until ex-President Nixon tells the truth," Goldwater said Monday in an interview with CBS.

Ford, in an October press conference, said there was "no credence" to rumors that he intended to give more Watergate pardons. But over the last weekend, in an interview with the Washington Post, Ford declined to say whether he planned to grant more pardons.

Deaf-mute gang something new

NEW YORK (AP) — Youth gangs are no strangers to the Bronx, and from a distance the Crazy Homicide gang looked like all the rest to Detective John Daly. He had never heard of a gang of deaf-mutes.

"At first they appeared to be a normal wild bunch of kids," Daly said on Sunday after 10 members of the gang had been accused of trying to set fire to a car the night before. "We were not aware they were deaf and mute."

It was not until Daly and his partner had chased the gang members about three blocks from the crime scene that he discovered their common handicap. Even then he was skeptical, he said.

"When we corralled them and they began using sign language, we thought it was a new routine," said Daly. "We thought it was a put-on."

Daly said he spotted the suspects, some armed with chains, spikes and sticks and sporting red bandanas on their hats, and followed them for about seven blocks.

There, Daley said, one of the youths rolled up a newspaper, jammed it into the gas tank of a car and put a match to the paper. He said he bolted from his cruiser, pulled the fiery paper from the gas tank and then apprehended the youths after a chase.

Other police officers said the youths, who ranged in age from 15 to 18, were cooperative as a sign language specialist from the department interrogated them. It took until 1 p.m Sunday to complete the paperwork.

They were charged with malicious mischief and unlawful assembly. Nine of the youths were held and the tenth was released into his parents' custody.

Daly said the Police Department's Bronx Youth Gang task force was familiar with the Crazy Homicide as a gang of deaf-mutes from around the city, many of whose members have been arrested previously.

"We come in contact with the unusual all the time," Daly said of the episode. "But this was very unusual."

Ex-theater union agent convicted

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The former top business agent for a major Southern California theater employes union has been convicted of 12 felony counts in connection with the vandalism of non-union Los Angeles and Orange County theaters.

Frank McBryde, formerly an official of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes Theater Pojectionists Local 150, was found guilty by a Superior Court jury Tuesday of conspiracy, arson, grand theft and burglary. He is scheduled for sentencing on Fed. 4.

Harry Brotton, a member of the union, is to be tried on similar charges next month. Another union member, Merlin Adler, has already spent a year in county jail on conspiracy and burglary convictions in connection with the attacks on theatres which did not use union projectionists.

Adler testified for the prosecution at McBryde's trial, saying McBryde had used him as a conduit to teenage vandals, hired to throw stink bombs and fire bombs at the theaters.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "HOW DO PEANUTS GROW?"

CYNTHIA MORGAN
WINSTON-SALEM, NC

A. THE PEANUT IS THE NUTLIKE SEED OF THE PEANUT PLANT. PEANUTS GROW UNDER THE GROUND IN PODS (SHELLS) THAT USUALLY CONTAIN TWO "NUTS."

DICK ROGERS © 1977 by NEA, Inc. T.M. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

The peanut is a kind of pea, not a nut. Like other peas, peanut plants bear seeds in containers called pods (shells). There are usually two peanuts in one shell.

Each peanut seed grows into a bushy plant that has many yellow flowers. After the flowers have fallen, the flower stalks begin to grown downward and push into the soil. There, the tips swell and grow into peanuts.

At harvest time, the peanut farmer uses a digging plow to dig up the peanuts. Peanuts are usually salted and roasted to bring out their rich, nutty flavor.

They are eaten alone or used in making candy and cookies and, of course, peanut butter.

Some peanuts are salted and roasted in the shell. They are soaked in salt water under pressure, and then dried and roasted.

Because peanuts grow underground, they are often called groundnuts. Still other names include goobers, goober peas, and groundpeas.

Joyce Brothers

American disease?

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband tells me he couldn't care less about a woman in his office, but I find it almost impossible to believe him. My neighbor says if I look him right in the eye when he's talking, I can tell if he's lying. Is this true? — S.P.

DEAR S.P.: Jealousy is a demeaning and destructive emotion that indicates dissatisfaction with one's self. It begins with self-discontent and is aggravated by lack of communication. This is not to say that jealousy isn't normal. It is. I know of many husbands and wives who feel as you do.

To me, something is very seriously wrong in a marriage if a man or woman has to resort to tricks in order to discover whether or not his or her mate is telling the truth. However, since you ask, an experienced liar can look you straight in the eye while perverting the truth. Some liars, however, have mannerisms that provide clues. They hold their hands over their mouths, fidget, shift their legs or play with eye glasses.

Ask yourself if you have reason to assume your husband is lying. If he has been sexually promiscuous, if he's lied to you before, you do have a reason. Then, you have to ask yourself what steps you want to take if he is lying. Do you want to leave him or do you think you can mend your marriage so that you won't have to wonder if he's lying every time another woman is involved in any way in his life? The best, perhaps the only way to overcome the problem, is to try to build a climate of trust.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My ex-husband takes no interest in our children until Christmas and then he buys them expensive toys, which I know he can't afford any more than my present husband and I. The money would be a lot better spent on clothes. We have a fairly good relationship so I think I can tell him the children will love him just as much, and his present wife would probably be grateful, if he did not spend so much on toys this year. — S.K.

DEAR S.K.: You'd be doing your ex-husband and your children a favor if you encourage him to spend more time with his children and less money during the holidays. He is clearly trying to compensate for what he's not giving them in interest, love and time. No toy is ever as reassuring as the time a parent shares with his child.

A child learns from many different activities. Parents can maximize a child's learning by being responsive to his interests and inquiries, and teaching him how to make his own toys from paper, old boxes, pots and pans. He learns about life and about who he is when a parent is playing and interacting with him.

Some educational toys are fine, but play, itself, especially when parents get involved, is a kind of learning tree. It is a sort of rehearsal for later in life. Play is a time when children try out various roles. Fortunately, the price tag hasn't gone up on the kind of play that most children want and need; that is, play where the child, rather than the toy is active, imaginative and involved.

Your children are extremely lucky that you and your ex-husband have a good relationship and they are bound to benefit in later years. Do everything you can to encourage their father to spend more time with your children throughout the years.

ARLENE SUDAR

June 12 wedding planned

Mr. and Mrs. David J. Sudar of Claremont announce the engagement of their daughter, Arlene Jill, to Ray H. Walker III of Alta Loma.

The bride-to-be is employed by Raj of India, International in the Montclair Plaza. She is a 1974 graduate of Claremont High School and is now attending Mt. San Antonio College.

Mr. Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray H. Walker Jr. of Alta Loma, is currently employed by the City of La Verne. He is a 1974 graduate of Chaffey High School and is attending Chaffey College.

The couple will be married June 12 at Scripps College in Claremont.

Statistics

NEW YORK — The proportion of American women between age 25 and 29 who remain unmarried has increased by more than one third since 1960, according to the American Council of Life Insurance.

Between 1965 and 1975, the average amount of ordinary life insurance purchased by single women climbed from $3,960 to $8,680, an increase of 119 per cent, the institute says.

Sunglasses can enhance face

LEOMINSTER, Mass. (AP) — Fashion-conscious women are discovering that the right pair of sunglasses can be both a beauty and personality accessory, according to a stylist for a firm that manufactures them.

"When frames complement the face, sunglasses can truly flatter. They also tell the world something about the wearer," explains Maureen Owens.

Selecting sunglasses to enhance facial contour is easy, she points out, offering this rule of thumb; Choose sunglasses with frames having a different shape from the face.

To establish what the shape is stand in front of a mirror, hair wrapped in a towel, she suggests. Use soap or cream to draw the face's outline on the mirror. Them simply stand back, observe and decide what shape is reflected there.

Ms. Owens, a stylist for Foster Grant here, offers this advice about selecting sunglasses.

Women with round faces do well in modified square or octagonal frames that don't extend beyond the face. They should stay away from sunglasses with round lenses. A faceful of circles adds pounds to the appearance.

Square faces need round or oval-shaped sunglasses. Pear-shaped faces look better in frames that slant slightly upward.

For faces that narrow at the forehead and widen at the jaws the right frames will be thicker above the eye and thinner below. Conversely, broad foreheads and narrow jaws need sunglasses with straightline upper rims and oval-shaped lenses.

Women with thin or long oval-shaped faces are lucky, Ms. Owens notes. They can wear almost any frame style, except for those super skinny ones.

"By the way," she adds, "sunglasses can help modify certain less than perfect features. Round, wide frames and a low-riding bridge 'shorten' a long nose while slender, horizontal frames with a bridge perched high on the nose will 'lengthen' it. Wide nostrils look narrower with sunglasses having a wide, keyhole-shaped bridge. Pointed chins 'soften' with frames having flowing, rather than angular, lines."

Once the wide range of styles has been narrowed somewhat, selecting sunglasses that reflect a mood or overall personality can be an interesting challenge, Ms. Osens says.

"Working within a basic shape, there will be a host of variations and combinations in styling and color. Take time, try sunglasses on before a mirror and ask, "Which styles tell my story."

"For instance, oval-shaped sunglasses with a frame of dark rich rose may whisper romance and mystery. Another, a basic oval with a metal detail on the nose bridge, in forest green, may communicate 'sportswoman.' And an oval-shaped frame with a chain-style temple, in tortoise, may assert itself as the career-woman's sunglasses."

Color shaping can be flattering

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

New color shaping techniques and flattering coiffures can take years off a face.

Hair brushed over the forehead in tendrils, bangs and so on, can hide wrinkles and frown lines. Combing hair forward at the sides of the face may help conceal early signs of jowls, crepey throat and even a double chin.

Now comes Aileen Platt, fashion director of Roux, the hair colorers, to explain how the experts are using color shaping to achieve better facial symmetry in emphasizing good features and subordinating less attractive ones.

"For example, a square face and heavy jaw can be softened by darkening the hair slightly from the bottom up half way at the sides to create an illusion of a narrower face, and then lightening it about the temples to draw interest to the eyes and away from the jaw."

As for a round face, Miss Platt notes that it can look more tapered with height and fullness at the top, perhaps a curly dark crown that extends to the back of the head. Hair on one side of the crown can be lightened to give an illusion of a slimmer face, brushing it back into a wavy coiffure. On the other hand, she points out, "fair hair at the sides of the face will soften a long face and make it look rounder."

The problem of a high forehead and small features may be solved by having the hair cut in a small shapely coiffure that combs up from the nape of the neck and falls forward onto the forehead, covering it with soft tendrils. This hairdo is also good to draw attention away from a flat look at the back of the head.

Coloring the hair with a rich chocolate color at the nape of the neck and blending it into a lighter warm brown toward the forehead, perhaps with honey-colored tendrils, should flatter small features.

If one desires to heighten the forehead it can be done by lightening the hair above the brow.

Women wearing the popular wedge cut can brush their hair in many ways and color shape it to achieve various cosmetic goals. Lightening hair across the forehead and eye area can solve the problem of a low forehead and may help narrow the face. If the hair is at the salt and pepper stage, this effect can be strengthened by using an ultra-white where lightness is required and a soft smoky black on remaining dark areas. The effect can provide an exciting look, Miss Platt maintains.

A good haircut is important to color shaping and harsh color separations should be avoided, she advises. Colors of different families should not be mixed. Cool colors should be kept together. Ditto warm colors. She has observed hairdressers using strawberry blush, a reddish blonde color, with titian, a brownish red. She has also seen a light golden blonde used with a golden brown.

In color shaping — darkening light areas and lightening dark ones — there are many ways to go. It can be done with small touch-ups or a larger coloring of the entire crown or sides and ends of hair. It should be undertaken by consulting the beautician.

Republican Women schedule luncheon

Newly elected president of the Claremont Republican Women's Club is Mrs. Dennis O'Connor. She will preside at the first meeting of the group for the new year Wednesday at 11:30 a.m. in the Sierra Room of Griswold's.

Speaker will be Mrs. Susie Pacifico, 62nd Assembly District precinct chairman. She will review highlights of her experiences in political activities here and in Germany.

Three awards received by the club at the annual convention of the Los Angeles County Republican women in December will be presented. They include the Diamond award for membership, the Diamond award for community participation and a gold award for precinct activities. Special recognition was given to the Claremont club as one of four leaders in membership growth among the 90 clubs in the county.

Members of the executive board to be introduced include Mrs. Charles Shirley, first vice president, program; Mrs. Robert Shacklett, second vice president, membership; Mrs. Luther Chambers, third vice president, ways and means; Mrs. Reid Williamson, treasurer; Mrs. James Edwards, recording secretary; and Mrs. C. R. Magnusson, recording secretary.

A Chinese auction will follow the luncheon. There will be some lovely boutique gifts. The luncheon is open to all interested women.

For further information and reservations call Mrs. Walter Phares, 626-4320, before Monday.

PVCCA to hear concert pianist

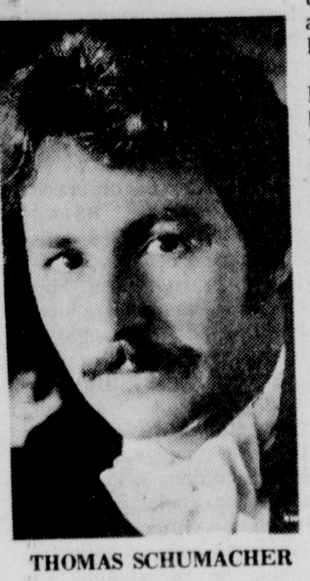

Concert pianist Thomas Schumacher will present a recital in Spring Auditorium, Ontario, at 8 p.m. Tuesday under the auspices of the Pomona Valley Community Concert Association.

Schumacher has appeared with the New York Philharmonic and other important American symphony orchestras and has been the recipient of many impressive citations: the Busoni Competition, Bolzano, Italy; the Morris Loeb Memorial Prize; the Frank Damrosch Scholarship; the Harold Bauer Award and the J.U.G.G. Award which led to his Town Hall debut. He is on the music faculty of the University of Maryland.

Of the major works he performs, he is master of no less than 18 concertos which cover a broad spectrum of interpretative ability from Bach to Prokofieff.

Schumacher was born in Butte, Mont. and received his early musical training there. He later studied at the Manhattan School of Music and Juilliard School of Music in New York. In the late 1960's he toured Poland and Japan appearing with the Warsaw Philharmonic under Joseph Wilkomirski and the Tokyo Philharmonic conducted by Yuzo Toyama.

Information on the concert or the Pomona Valley Community Concert Association can be obtained from Mrs. Stuart Brockway, 986-5789.

THOMAS SCHUMACHER

STAR CROSS'D LOVERS — Diana Weber and Tomm Ruud dance the title roles in the San Francisco Ballet production of "Romeo and Juliet," to be presented in Royce Hall, UCLA, at 8:30 p.m. next Thursday and Jan. 22. Michael Smuin choreographed the Prokofieff score.

Recital set at Bridges

Margaret Ashe, cellist with the San Francisco Symphony, will appear with pianist Sharon Mann Polk and guest flutist David Subke in a concert in Bridges Hall, Pomona College, at 3 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.

Miss Ashe and Miss Polk will play the Sonata in G Minor by Beethoven, the Debussy Cello Sonata and Ginastera's "Pampeana No. 2." Subke will join them in a performance of "Vox Balaenae" (The Voice of the Whale), by American composer George Crumb, a work reflecting the recent recordings made by animal researchers of the actual sounds emitted by whales.

Craft Cottage slates exhibit

Fleur de Paris of Los Angeles is presenting an exhibit and sale of hand-painted reproductions on canvas of works by famous European artists at the new Craft Cottage, 971 W. Foothill Blvd., Claremont, today and Friday.

The gallery will be open until 9 o'clock tonight and from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Friday. Admission is free.

The canvases include reproductions of the Cluny tapestries and the works of such artists as Fragonard, Boucher, Spitzweeg and Chardin. The paintings are designed so the purchaser can reproduce them in needlepoint.

Craft Cottage, directed by Marie Ohman, will offer a series of classes in the crafts starting Monday. It includes tole painting, hardanger (needlework), Brazilian embroidery, blackwork, thread pulling, paper tole, decoupage, statuary painting, macrame and other crafts.

Woman to lead concert

Frances Steiner, principal cellist with the Glendale Symphony, will conduct the orchestra in a concert in the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center at 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

She is the first woman to conduct the orchestra.

Miss Steiner is music director of the Compton Civic Symphony and the Baroque Consortium. She is an associate professor at Cal State Dominguez Hills.

President's dog

Lyndon Johnson was the first president to bring his dog to an inaugural parade.

CCAA chase exciting

The most exciting thing about covering Cal Poly's athletic fortunes is the CCAA basketball chase.

For years, the conference has said it is the most competitive basketball league in the nation on the Division II level.

And the record speaks for itself.

There hasn't been a dominant team like a UCLA or a hapless loser like Caltech in the circuit.

All six members of the conference field representative basketball teams and the old cliche of anybody can beat anyone on a given night is very true when discussing the CCAA.

It makes it a lot of fun.

A healthy competitive situation is what makes sports so exciting. It really isn't that much fun when one team dominates a sport year after year or a team can't compete on an equal basis.

Unfortunately for the CCAA, basketball is the only sport in which the league is strong. There are only three members in football and four in baseball.

Bill Scott, the sports information director at UC Riverside, has compiled some interesting data about the CCAA races during the seven years Freddie Goss has been the head coach at UCR.

Always close

As Scott noted, the championship is usually not decided until the last weekend of play and in most years at least two teams have been in the running for the championship going into the final game.

With the exception of the 1974 race, all other league championships during the past seven years have been decided by one game.

In 1974, Cal Poly San Luis Obispo won the CCAA title with an 8-2 record for a two-game advantage over UCR's 6-4 mark.

However, UCR won the regional championship in the NCAA Division II playoffs ahead of champion SLO.

In 1970, UCR posted a 6-2 record to edge SLO and Cal State Fullerton, both 5-3. Cal State Northridge, then known as San Fernando Valley State, won the crown in 1971 with a 7-1 mark — one game better than SLO.

UCR, SLO and Northridge shared the 1972 title with identical 5-3 records and UCR and Cal State Bakersfield were co-champions in 1973 with 8-2 marks.

Cal Poly Pomona, under Don Hogan's coaching, has finished second the past two seasons.

UCR's 6-2 record in 1975 edged the Broncos' 5-3 mark and Bakersfield took top honors last year with its 8-2 record edging Pomona's 7-3 mark.

Still looking for first

The Broncos are still looking for their first CCAA championship and memories of last year won't cause any premature celebrations.

Hogan's team swept through the league in the first round for a perfect 5-0 record with three of the wins coming on the road.

But the Broncos were only 2-3 during the second round with a home court defeat to last-place SLO being the big blow.

CCAA teams enter the conference chase Friday night with an unimpressive 36-41 overall record. But the big reason for that misleading figure is a 3-26 record against Division I opponents. Take away those games and the CCAA is 33-15 against Division II or lower level foes.

The six CCAA teams are also very even in their non-league records.

UCR (6-5), Cal State Los Angeles (7-6) and Bakersfield (7-6) enjoy the best records ahead of SLO (6-7), Pomona (5-8) and Cal State Northridge (5-9).

Analyzing scores also doesn't indicate much.

For example, almost everybody in the league has played San Francisco State. UCR enjoyed a 22-point victory over the Gators while Pomona won by 11. Cal St. Los Angeles had to struggle for a two-point win and SLO split a pair of games.

SLO stunned Stanford, 79-61, and lost by only a basket, 67-65, on the road at Illinois. But the Mustangs were also beaten by Southern California College. Pomona can take pride in playing teams like San Francisco, the nation's top-ranked team, and Notre Dame.

But an one-sided loss at Whittier plus a home court defeat at the hands of Azusa Pacific takes some luster away from losing to some of the nation's best teams.

There's no question Hogan has more talent and depth this season but he also doesn't have a super individual take-charge guy like the graduated Joe Sills.

It all means every game is a big question mark and that's what makes it so much fun.

RETURNS TO CELTICS

Dave Cowens, who abruptly walked out on the Boston Celtics more than two months ago, laces up his sneakers Wednesday night after agreeing to rejoin the Celtics at today's practice.

Cowens comes back

By the Associated Press

It was a banner day for the Boston Celtics—then they went and spoiled it by playing a basketball game.

The good news came from Dave Cowens, the all-star center who had taken a leave of absence Nov. 8, saying he would not return to the team until next fall. Wednesday, Cowens announced he had a change of heart and would be back in uniform as soon as possible.

Cowens said jokingly that "I may not be in shape until next September." However, he will be in uniform Friday night when the Celtics meet the Portland Trail Blazers at Boston Garden.

Alternating seriousness with jest, Cowens said he has been working out lightly, weighs about a normal 225 pounds, but "I'm not in playing shape."

"I should be able to make it through the warmups Friday," Cowens said. "No, I'll be able to play some. The big thing will be building my stamina. That could take maybe two weeks, like in training camp.

"I can't do any more than I have in the past, and I don't know if I'm physically capable of doing that for a while. However, my attitude on the court will be the same.

"I left for personal reasons and I'm coming back for personal reasons," the 6-foot-9 Cowens said in hedging on why he decided to return.

"When I left, it was for personal reasons which I don't want to reveal," he said. "The reasons still are personal, but I don't have any regrets. I don't want to seem like a wishy washy person. I'm going to play and that's it."

Cowens admitted he had been taking a lot of criticism and "it was getting to me."

A lack of enthusiasm and inability to play to what he felt was 100 per cent of his ability generally were considered the reasons for Cowens' departure. "My enthusiasm has returned and I'm anxious to get started playing again," he said.

"I'm just going to play basketball and put an end to all this talk, people wondering what I'm doing all the time," he added. "It was getting a little hectic. Not playing and playing is a lot different. I thought it would be better not playing, but it wasn't. I didn't know what I was up against."

"It's great, just super," was the reaction of Celtics Coach Tom Heinsohn, whose team has stumbled to a 15-15 record without Cowens and who knows that the big center can mean the difference between fighting for a playoff spot.

Then the Celtics showed up at Boston Garden for a game against the Indiana Pacers, and the rosy picture took on an ashen tone.

In the opening minute of play, high-scoring guard Charlie Scott tumbled to the floor under the basket, landing on his left arm. He was taken to University Hospital, and moments later the Celtics got the bad news—two broken bones in the forearm.

"I ran over and he said, 'I broke it,'" Heinsohn said. "I didn't even want to look. He did the same thing to the same arm while with Phoenix a couple of years ago and had to have a plate put in the arm. I'd say he was lost for the season."

The rest of the game did not go much better for Boston. Billy Knight, Indiana's scoring star, poured in 33 points, including eight in a row during the second half that nailed down a 112-101 victory for the Pacers, their sixth consecutive National Basketball Association triumph.

Contributing to Heinsohn's headache, besides the loss of a basketball game, were the injury to Scott; the late arrival of Sidney Wicks and Curtis Rowe, who got caught in traffic and did not arrive until midway through the first period, and three Boston players who fouled out against Indiana.

"Somebody's gotta be kidding," Heinsohn said.

Amateur changes urged

NEW YORK (AP) — Amateur athletics in the United States should be run by a new central organization composed only of the various national bodies, the President's Commission on Olympic Sports recommended today.

Noting that "incessant organizational squabbles waste time and talent and threaten the fundamental rights of athletes" to compete, the 22-member commission called on Congress to create the new organization on the structure of U.S. Olympic Committee.

The two-volume, 613-page report, which took 18 months and $1 million to compile, was submitted to President Ford and President-elect Carter earlier this week and was outlined at news conferences today here and in Los Angeles.

"United States sports organizations are fragmented, not bound by common purpose or any effective coordinating system," the report noted. "No clear policy or direction in amateur sport, physical education or physical fitness can be or has been maintained."

The panel, which included four U.S. senators and four members of the House, said the new USOC "is proposed as the highest congress of a representative, vertically integrated American sports system, with appropriate checks and balances built in."

Under the proposed organization, each national governing body, such as those that administer and operate sports like badminton, cycling, luge or weightlifting, would send a maximum of five representatives to an annual Congress. The Congress would elect a 15-member board of directors, containing at least three athletes, which would be the major policy making body of the central sports organization.

The report is a result of months of hearings, meetings and research by the commission and staff.

Damien's Duffy Athlete of Week

Bill Duffy, Damien High's superlative senior basketball player, has been selected the Progress Bulletin's Prep Athlete of the Week for his performance in the Spartans' first two San Antonio League games last week.

Duffy paced Damien to wins at Montclair (69-55) and at Upland (68-55).

In the Montclair game, Duffy made five of nine shots from the floor and 14 of 14 free throws for 24 points. He was credited with seven rebounds, six assists and six steals.

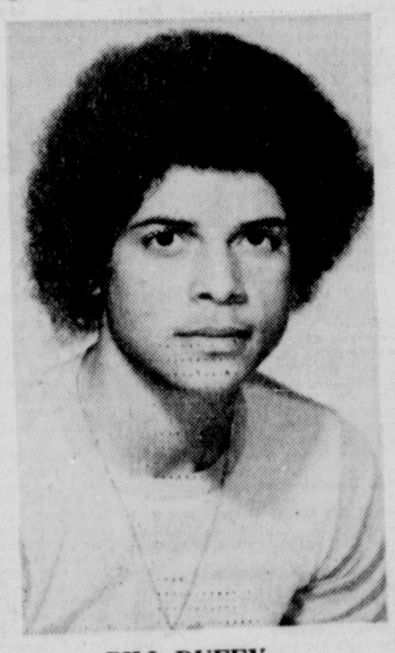

Against Upland, he made 11 of 16 field goal attempts and six of seven foul shots for 28 points, which is his season high. (He also scored 28 against Bishop Amat in a non-league game.) He frustrated the Highlanders with seven rebounds, seven assists and two steals.

Duffy, a pre-season All-America selection who is being recruited by several major colleges, has made 100 of 196 field goal tries for the season (including Damien's 66-47 win over Chino Tuesday) for a 51 per cent mark. He has made 59 of 66 free throws, 89.4 per cent. Duffy's scoring average is 21.7.

The 6-foot-4½ senior, truly an all-around player, has 101 rebounds (an 8.9 average), 53 assists and 40 steals on the year.

Also nominated for this week's Athlete of the Week award was Robert Turner of Calvary Baptist High. Turner, a 6-2 sophomore center, scored 39 points and grabbed 30 rebounds last Tuesday against Woodcrest. He made 19 of 32 field goal attempts in that game.

Turner played just one game last week. Calvary Baptist's game at Victor Valley Christian, scheduled for last Friday, was postponed by snow.

BILL DUFFY . . .
Prep Athlete of the Week

Duffy will be presented a plaque by Pomona Elks Lodge 789, sponsor of the PB Athlete of the Week program, at a dinner at the lodge next Wednesday.

Past Athletes of the Week to be honored at that banquet are Ontario's Otis Manning, Claremont's Derek Britton and Alta Loma's Kevin Comstock, all basketball players, and San Dimas' Bob Pleasant, a wrestler.

Santa Ana rips MSAC

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

Roland Todd's Santa Ana Dons connected on 14 of their first 17 shots as Mt. San Antonio College quickly found itself staring at a 29-13 deficit Wednesday night. MSAC never recovered from the Dons' opening blitz as the Mounties dropped their South Coast Conference opener by a score of 83-68 on their home court.

The Mounties at times were their own worst enemy as they turned the ball over a total of 36 times and failed to move the ball around to free men from Santa Ana's sticky man-to-man defense.

Santa Ana quickness enabled the Dons to get off to their fast start. The Dons were able to spring their shooters open for five to 15-footers. Freshman center Kevin Williams and Steve Smith hurt the Mounties on their own offensive board.

"I think our quickness hurt them defensively," noted the Dons' head coach. Todd added, "We were able to get our hands on some balls and we also forced them to throw up some bad shots.

"Their bad shot selection at the beginning of the game helped us to get off to a good start offensively. We were able to run the break off of these shots."

MSAC made a brief run at Santa Ana late in the opening half of action as the Mounties narrowed the Don lead to 50-39 at halftime. The Mounties held Santa Ana's margin to 11 until three minutes deep into the second half. After a MSAC basket which made the score 52-41, Santa Ana rolled off a scoring spree of 10 points in a four-minute span. MSAC only registered two points on the board during this time span.

Santa Ana's defense kept the Mounties away from the hoop most of the evening as MSAC connected on 30 of 72 shots.

"We just didn't execute very well tonight," explained MSAC's Gene Victor. "I don't know if their quickness actually hurt us. But when you don't execute properly everything hurts you."

MSAC's top scorer was Dick Rockwood with 16 points. Steve Nichols came off the bench to score 15 points and pull down 11 caroms. John Deck added 14.

Santa Ana, which hit 52 percent from the field, out rebounded MSAC, 50-32. The Dons' top scorer was Williams with 20.

MSAC returns to action Saturday night while Santa Ana draws a bye in South Coast Conference action. MSAC hosts Grossmont in a 7:30 p.m. contest.

UCLA visits Cal

By The Associated Press

Two of the nation's top 20 teams, No. 1 University of San Francisco and No. 12 UCLA, face crucial conference games in this week's West Coast college basketball action.

USF, 2-0 in West Coast Athletic Association play and 17-0 overall, faces Pepperdine, the defending WCAC champion, Friday. The Waves are 1-1 in conference play and sport a respectable 9-3 overall mark.

Meanwhile, UCLA's Bruins, out of the top 10 for the first time since 1966, bring a 1-1 Pacific-8 conference mark to Berkeley for a game with California tonight. Oregon, which squeeked by UCLA 61-60 last week, faces a stern test from Washington tonight while Oregon State plays Washington State, now 13-2.

In other Pac-8 games, Southern California, 0-2 in league play, goes against Stanford tonight, then plays Cal Saturday on regional television. WSU faces Oregon at Eugene and Washington is at Oregon State.

In WCAC action, Portland, 02, clashes with Nevada-Reno, 11, and Seattle, 1-1, faces St. Mary's, 0-2. Loyola, 2-0, meets Santa Clara, 1-1, Friday.

All eight clubs are in conference action again Saturday night.

Only three league games have been played in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association. The early leaders, Long Beach State and Fullerton State, both beat UC Santa Barbara, but UCSB came back for an upset win over Fresno State for a 1-2 mark.

San Jose St. and University of Pacific open league play against each other Friday night. Saturday, Long Beach plays UCSB and San Diego is at Fullerton State.

Pepperdine was expected to make the WCAC title a contest, but the Waves lost a stunning 77-73 clash with Nevada-Reno last Friday after four overtime periods.

The following night, they barely edged a weak St. Mary's squad 76-74. Pepperdine has a three-game win streak going against USF, including the dramatic 85-84 victory over the Dons which gave the Waves last year's WCAC crown.

UCLA held a seven-point edge on the tenacious Ducks with under four minutes on the clock, but poor passing and shot selection, a determined Oregon defense and a questionable foul call with one second left upset the Bruins.

Two local booters picked by Aztecs

Two former Claremont High soccer stars, Ron Thomas and David Goldstein, were drafted by the Los Angeles Aztecs Wednesday in the North American Soccer League pro draft.

Thomas, who just finished his senior season at Pomona-Pitzer, was picked by the Aztecs in the third round. Goldstein, who completed his senior campaign at Claremont-Mudd this fall, was selected by the L.A. club in the fourth round.

Goldstein is currently the head soccer coach at Pomona High. He graduated from Claremont High in 1970 and Thomas in 1972.

Ontario adds March 6 races

Ontario Motor Speedway general manager Ray Smartis has pulled off a coup.

OMS has a sponsor for a pair of 200-mile events, one featuring Indy cars and the other USAC stock cars, to be held March 6.

Plans to stage the event fell through twice before. But the track never was able to land a sponsor. But Datsun has agreed to be the angel and the races are on.

Called the Datsun Twin 200s, the $175,000 event will also serve as the 1977 curtain raiser for USAC's Citicorp National Championship Series and stock car division, and will provide West Coast sports fans with a first look at dozens of new race cars developed and built for the 1977 season.

"It's an exciting way to launch the new season," explained Smartis. "The twin race concept is not new — it has had great success in the East and Mid-west. But this will be the first time West Coast fans will have the opportunity of seeing a Championship and stock car twin bill.

"And we're especially excited about the support Datsun will be giving as the event's sponsor," Smartis added. "We're pleased to be associated with a company known for its success in racing and performance."

Both races have a full International listing on the FIA calendar of 1977 events which means drivers from NASCAR or other sanctioning bodies, with an International license will be eligible to compete. Smartis said he anticipates a huge response when entry forms are mailed sometime next week.

The Championship or Indy car portion of the twin event — which will be run first on March 6 — will be televised live nationally (except on the West Coast) by ABC. The 200-miler will be open to the fastest 24 qualifiers, and many of those drivers are expected to also seek a berth in the 30-car field for the stock car 200-miler which will follow.

Recent tests at Ontario Motor Speedway indicate it will probably take a speed of over 200 mph to earn a front row starting position in the 200-mile Championship race.

Datsun will play a major role in the promotion of the event through an extensive advertising campaign on radio, television and in newspapers throughout the market area.

"We intend to give the event full support of our advertising and publicity departments," explained Robert B. Kent, vice president of marketing services for Nissan USA, importer of Datsun cars and trucks.

"Our involvement with racing — especially at Ontario where our products have been the official vehicles and pace cars for the past four years — is extremely important to us and we're certainly proud to be closely associated with the Datsun Twin 200s as the major sponsor," Kent added.

All of USAC's top stars from both the Championship and stock car divisions are expected to enter the March 6 classic and many of the Indy drivers such as A.J. Foyt, Roger McCluskey, the Unser brothers, Johnny Rutherford and Gordon Johncock are expected to compete in both races. The stock car portion will, of course, include all of USAC's stock car regulars along with many of NASCAR's West Coast drivers.

The Datsun Twin 200s will include four days of racing activity beginning with practice on March 3-4, followed by qualifying on March 5 and topped by the twin races beginning at 1 p.m. March 6.

Whittier beats La Verne cagers

La Verne College suffered its first SCIAC loss of the season Wednesday night at Whittier, as the host Poets downed the Leopards, 97-74.

In other SCIAC contests, Claremont-Mudd bested Caltech 81-45 and Redlands beat Pomona-Pitzer 66-51.

La Verne played Whittier even up for the first three minutes Wednesday, but from that point it was all Poets. The hosts had six men in double figures, led by Hugh Butler with 20 and Wyatt Sweeney with 18. The win gives Whittier a 2-0 SCIAC mark, while La Verne is now 2-1 in conference and 4-9 overall.

Mike Sharp and Ulysses Ruffin led La Verne with 17 points apiece, while Sharp had a game-high 11 rebounds.

Former Ganesha High player Ralph Dudley came off the bench to contribute 12 points to the Poets' winning effort.

Claremont-Mudd spotted visiting Caltech a 6-0 lead and then jumped away to post its second SCIAC victory against one loss. The Stags are now 6-9 on the year.

Guard Mark Sunderland led the Stags with 18 points. John Daniels came off the bench to add eight points and a game-high five assists for C-M.

Caltech, now 0-2 in league, sealed its own doom by committing 41 turnovers to C-M's 14.

Former Bonita High star Steve Sly paced Redlands past host Pomona-Pitzer Wednesday. Shy, a freshman center, led the Bulldogs with 16 points.

The big difference in the game was the cold shooting of the Sagehens. P-P hit only 32 percent (19 of 59) of its field goal attempts, compared to 50 percent (27 of 54) for Redlands.

Brandon Boyd led 'Hen scoring with 15 points. Pomona-Pitzer is now 0-3 in league and 3-12 on the year.

Citrus falters

Citrus College's stay atop the Mission Conference cage standings was a brief one, as the Owls dropped a 96-79 decision at Palomar Wednesday night to fall to a 1-1 conference mark.

In another Mission tilt, Riverside City College took visiting Chaffey apart, 98-79.

The Owls, now 10-8 on the year, fell behind Palomar early and could not catch up. The Comets are now 2-0 in conference action.

Ken Jackson led Palomar with 26 points, teammate David Joy adding 20. Damien High product Mike Wetenkamp paced the Owls with 22, followed by Steve Barnes with 19. Eric Childs had 14 prior to fouling out in the late going.

RCC's hot-shooting guard Ron Baldwin had 35 points as the Tigers downed Chaffey. The Panthers, surprisingly, led at the half 44-41, but RCC ran rings around the locals in the second half.

Roger Gubichuk led Chaffey with 18 points, Kevin Johnson adding 17 and Ken Jackson 15. Bruce Daniels had 13 points and nine rebounds for the losers, who are now 0-2 in Mission activity and 2-16 on the year. RCC is 2-0 and 14-5.

Vikings, 'Pack tie

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Garey and Claremont highs battled to a 0-0 tie Wednesday afternoon at Claremont's Sumner Park in an important San Antonio League soccer match.

The Viking-Wolfpack draw, coupled with Damien's narrow 1-0 win over Chino, boosts the Spartans into first place after two rounds of SAL soccer action.

Other SAL results Wednesday saw Ganesha and Upland fight to a 0-0 tie and Montclair beat Pomona 4-3.

Both coaches felt their squads played exceptional soccer Wednesday, although Garey mentor Joe Sandhu was a little concerned with the outcome, as it was the Vikings' second straight tie in SAL play.

"I thought we played well enough to win," Sandhu noted. "We have played two good games now and have only two ties to show for it. I hope we can beat Upland on Friday, our kids need a win right now."

"It was a real well-played game," Claremont coach Bill Vaskis said, echoing Sandhu's sentiments. "I'm not really that unhappy with the tie, I thought we did a good job outside of a couple plays we kind of messed up ourselves."

Both those plays came in the second half and represented Claremont's two top scoring chances. On one, Scott Kegans broke loose in front of the Garey goal but dribbled the ball a tad too long, enabling Viking defender Arturo Reyes to boot the ball safely out-of-bounds.

The other, which occurred late in the final half, saw John Mack sail in from his left wing after picking off an errant Viking pass. Mack had Garey goalie Jesus Lopez at his mercy, but his shot from five feet to the left of the nets curved outside the goal post by inches.

Garey also had a couple good scoring chances in the final half. Early in the half Dioscoro Macias, the Vikings' fine midfielder, just missed converting from in front of the Claremont goal, 'Pack goalie Steve Tipping making a nice chest-high save on Macias' hard shot.

Macias came back later in the final 20 minutes to just miss on a long free kick from 40 yards out, his strong boot being straight on goal but sailing just over the crossbar.

On the contest, Claremont finished with a slight edge in shots on goal, 17-12. Tipping had three saves while the Vikings' Lopez had four. The 'Pack had seven corner kicks to Garey's two.

In addition to goalie Lopez, Garey coach Sandhu praised the defensive play of center fullback Humberto Cortez. 'Pack mentor Vaskis was also pleased with his team's defensive effort, especially Mack and Jerry VanZee.

In those other SAL tilts, Mark Hunter was the hero for Damien with a solo-effort goal in the second half to beat Montclair. Rick Adams had two goals for Montclair, teammates Ray Garcia and Art Alaniz adding a goal apiece, as the Cavaliers beat Pomona.

Billy O'Dell, Rick Turner and Mike Whalen scored for the Red Devils.

Ontario beats Saints, keeps share of lead

By MARK GRIP
PB Correspondent

Ontario High trounced San Dimas 73-50 Wednesday afternoon to remain tied for the Hacienda League lead.

The host Jaguars stay atop the standings with Alta Loma, a 38-30 victor over Bonita, both owning perfect 3-0 league records.

Ontario is 12 - 2 overall. The Saints drop to 1-2 in league and 3-10 overall.

Ontario was in command for most of the game, but San Dimas did make a run at them in the fourth quarter.

San Dimas found itself down by as much as 15 points early in the quarter and rallied to narrow the lead to eight points with 4:26 left in the game.

In the final four-minutes-plus the Jaguars blew the game open outscoring the visitors 19-4 to end the game up by 23.

The Saints never led in the game and were only tied once early in the game (2-2). Ontario built a 19-8 lead after the first eight minutes of play.

Ontario duplicated its point total in the second quarter with reserves playing the final three minutes, to lead 38-22 going into the locker room. Saint Mark Klein had nine points in the quarter.

In the low-scoring third quarter, San Dimas took three points off the lead to trail 48-35. Klein again had nine points to lead the Saints.

Klein led all scorers with 24 points and seven rebounds from his center position. Jag' guard Otis Manning scored 20 markers to lead his team.

Ontario's Donaldson brothers, Mickey and John, scored 19 and 15 points respectively. John also blocked three shots before fouling out with 46 seconds left in the game.

Jaguar Leo Olivas led all rebounders with 12 caroms and also blocked a shot.

When HL action resumes Friday, Ontario will visit Bonita and San Dimas will host Royal Oak.

Chaffey, Mustangs win cage contests

Chaffey and Walnut highs both recorded league wins in Wednesday's basketball action.

The Tigers won a 66-64 overtime decision at San Gorgonio while the Mustangs earned a 63-54 win at Gladstone.

Chaffey ran its Citrus Belt League record to 3-1 when, after a timeout with one second on the clock in overtime, forward Randy Johnston took the inbounds pass and hit a 20-foot shot for the two-point win. The game was tied at 60 after four quarters.

Center Randy Wenzel led the Tigers with 16 points and forward Steve Snell and guard John Kohler added 15 and 13, respectively. San Gorgonio's Tim Bradfield led all scorers with 22 points. San Gorgonio is now 1-3 in league play.

Walnut had only a four-point lead (54-50) with two minutes to play when forward Doug Vind, the Mustangs' leading scorer with 16 points, made a five-point play.

Vind stole the ball but was fouled flagrantly by Gladstone's Aaron Schaffer on the way to a lay up. Vind made not only the basket and single foul shot, but also two technical foul shots as Schaffer was ejected from the game.

Walnut's Jeff Davis scored 14 points and teammate Alex Solorzano added 11 as Schaffer and Bob Sieger led the Gladiators with 18 apiece.

Walnut (2-1 in Hacienda League play) will host Alta Loma Friday. Chaffey will enjoy its first home game of the season Friday against Redlands.

'Cats scare A.L.

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

Alta Loma High weathered a first-half scare at Bonita Wednesday and pulled out a 38-30 Hacienda League win over the Bearcats.

The hosts began the game as though they would not only upset — but route — the Braves. At the end of one quarter, Bonita held a 14-6 lead.

But no one suspected at that point that the Bearcats had done nearly half their scoring. Alta Loma came back to trail just 23-20 at haltime and went on to an eight-point victory despite scoring just nine points in each of the last two quarters.

Bonita managed just seven points in the second half.

Guard Keith Brandt hit a field goal to give Bonita a 20-14 lead with 3:34 to play in the second quarter. Alta Loma's Mark Anderson was assessed a technical foul for grabbing the rim on the play and Keith Knight's free throw put the 'Cats seven points ahead.

But Bonita played the next 11 minutes without a field goal until Brandt hit with 33 seconds left in the third period — and that two-pointer was the Bearcats' only field goal in a span of more than 17 minutes.

But the Braves were not much more effective, and held only a 31-28 lead with two minutes to play. But Alta Loma forward Kevin Comstock made five points in those final two minutes to put the contest away.

The game was poorly played throughout. Ballhandling was so totally lacking that it was practically an event whenever either team managed to work the ball downcourt for a shot.

For example, Alta Loma shot 75 per cent from the floor in the first quarter: the Braves made three of four shots and committed 12 turnovers.

Each team was guilty of 24 turnovers for the game.

"The ball-handling was so bad — I don't know what we can do," said coach Jeff McCall of the Braves. "But we played excellent defense.

"If we ever break loose on offense, some team is going to suffer."

Alta Loma's John Conger led all scorers with 14 points and Comstock was next with 12. Knight came off the bench to pace Bonita's scoring with nine points and Brandt had eight.

Comstock was the leading rebounder with nine and Anderson added eight. Rich Davis, Alta Loma's 6-foot-10 center, blocked 10 shots.

The Braves (13-3 overall) will risk their 3-0 Hacienda League record Friday at Walnut (2-1, 7-7) while Bonita (0-3, 1-11) hosts Ontario (3-0, 13-2).

Poly women fall to CSF

Cal Poly's women's basketball team, after leading visiting Cal State Fullerton, 57-51, with 3:34 to play, fell to the Titans, 60-59, Wednesday night.

Fullerton, ranked sixth among the nation's universities in women's basketball, is 5-0. Poly is 6-2 and will host Nebraska Friday at 8 p.m.

CSF's Nancy Dunkle, who competed on the U.S. Olympic team in 1976, led the Titans with 19 points. Her jump shot gave the visitors a 59-57 lead with 35 seconds left and, after Poly's Musiette McKinney hit a 25-footer to tie the score, Dunkle made one of two foul shots with eight seconds remaining to win the game.

Mary Reichert led Poly's scorers with 13 points.

Fullerton held a 47-38 lead with 11 minutes to play before Poly scored 10 straight points for a 48-47 lead.

The Broncos shot 41 per cent (23 of 56) to Fullerton's 39 per cent (26 of 64). The two teams will meet again at Fullerton on Feb. 22.

A new obscenity decision slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Obscenity, long a thorny issue for the Supreme Court, will confront the justices again later this year when they hear arguments challenging the validity of an obscenity law in Illinois.

The court agreed Monday to decide whether the Illinois law is overbroad and vague in defining what is obscene.

Beyond the individual case is a greater challenge, however. The defendant questions a landmark ruling by the court in 1973 which the court's majority then hoped would solve the obscenity dilemma for good.

"We contend that the definition of obscenity will never be able to be given in a way to end the vagueness of the current law," said J. Steven Beckett, the attorney who will argue against the Illinois law.

"We contend problems of definition will always be there, in and out of Illinois," he said after learning of the court's decision to grant review.

Beckett represents Wesley Ward, convicted in 1972 of selling two obscene publications at his Peoria store.

The U.S. Supreme Court, in its 1973 ruling, held by a 5-4 split that obscene material is not protected by First Amendment rights of free press. The majority decision written by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger laid down three tests for courts to follow in deciding what is obscene:

—Would "average persons, applying contemporary community standards," find the work, taken as a whole, appealing to prurient interests — shameful or morbid interests in nudity, sex, or excretions.

—Does the work "lack serious, literary, artistic, political or scientific value."

—Does the work depict or describe, in a patently offensive way, sexual conduct "specifically" defined by the applicable state law.

Ward's appeal attacks the third part of the Burger test.

"The (Illinois) statute contains no specific definition of sexual conduct. Illinois has never specifically defined, either in its legislation or judicial construction, the sexual conduct which may not be depicted or described," the appeal said.

Ward's attorney says no court, certainly not one in Illinois, can adequately define what is obscene.

Although he will limit his argument to what he says is Illinois "completely missing the boat," Beckett's argument, in effect, states that the 1973 Supreme Court decision is unworkable as a constitutional standard.

At least three justices probably can be counted on to agree with that assessment.

Justices Potter Stewart, William J. Brennan, Jr., and Thurgood Marshall dissented from the 1973 ruling. They said that any written material, as long as it was not forced on individuals, should be protected by the First Amendment.

Retired Justice William O. Douglas was the fourth dissenter then.

The 1973 ruling did not end the flood of obscenity cases reaching the nation's courts. In the past three years, the Supreme Court has turned down dozens of such cases and this term already has heard arguments on one obscenity legal fight.

Whatever the court decides about the Illinois law, the appeal may move the justices to expand on or make more specific the three-part test devised in 1973. Only time will tell if the final disposition of Ward's case provides any more of a definitive answer.

In other matters Monday, the court:

—Agreed to decide whether an Ohio law allowing officials to loan educational equipment to parochial schools and provide off-campus services for parochial students violates constitutional standards requiring separation of church and government.

—Agreed to decide whether private employers have to give credit in their pension plans to the time employes were off the job because of military duty.

—Agreed to hear arguments from E.C. Chappelle Jr., of Baton Rouge, La., who claims a state law requiring citizens to own property in order to serve on an appointed airport commission denies him equal protection of the law.

—Agreed in a Hazelwood, Mo., school case to decide whether it is illegal for non-federal government agegncies to discriminate in hiring and other job practices on the basis of race or sex even if the discrimination was not intentional.

Eating Out

Does it seem that the family is eating out more frequently? If your family is like most, you probably are, says the National Live Stock and Meat Board. Recent surveys have shown that one out of every three dollars spent for food is spent for food eaten away from home. In 1980, it is estimated that this figure will rise to one out of every two dollars spent for food.

GEMCO WINTER CLEAN-UP EVENT!

WE GUARANTEE* OUR MEMBERS THE LOWEST FOOD TOTAL IN TOWN.

When you join Gemco, you join a supermarket that works hard to give you a lower total on your entire shopping list. In fact, our buyers are out to give you the lowest prices in town. They have the ability to move quickly, and they have the enormous buying power that comes from buying for 5 million members. Gemco keeps prices down on each and every item you purchase, and that really makes a big difference at the cash register. Your weekly totals at Gemco will be lower than if you shopped anywhere else in town. Join Gemco. Shop Gemco. And Compare!

*Our "Double The Difference" refund offer...

After you've made your normal weekly grocery purchases at Gemco, (a minimum of 25 items totaling $20 or more) compare item for item at any other supermarket you choose. If the total amount is less at the other supermarket, WE'LL REFUND YOU DOUBLE THE DIFFERENCE of the two tape totals. Simply bring us your Gemco receipt, along with the prices of the other supermarket. Prove to yourself that when it comes to your total food bill, we guarantee no supermarket saves you more than Gemco.

GUARANTEED VALUE PER MEASURE.

At Gemco, we guarantee the larger size of any item to be the better value. This takes the guesswork out of buying the proper size for your family's needs, making it easier for you to be a smart shopper.

GOLD VALUES FOR OUT OF THE ORDINARY SAVINGS.

Look for the Gold Value emblem on the shelf. You'll find them on hundreds of items throughout our supermarket. These extra savings are made possible by temporary manufacturer's allowances, which enable us to price these items even below their regular everyday low price.

SINGLE ITEM PRICING.

The price you see is the price you pay. There's less confusion on value, there's less confusion on keeping your budget within bounds. There is no multiple pricing: No 4 for 89¢ to figure out. At a glance you see the exact cost of any box, can or package you buy at Gemco.

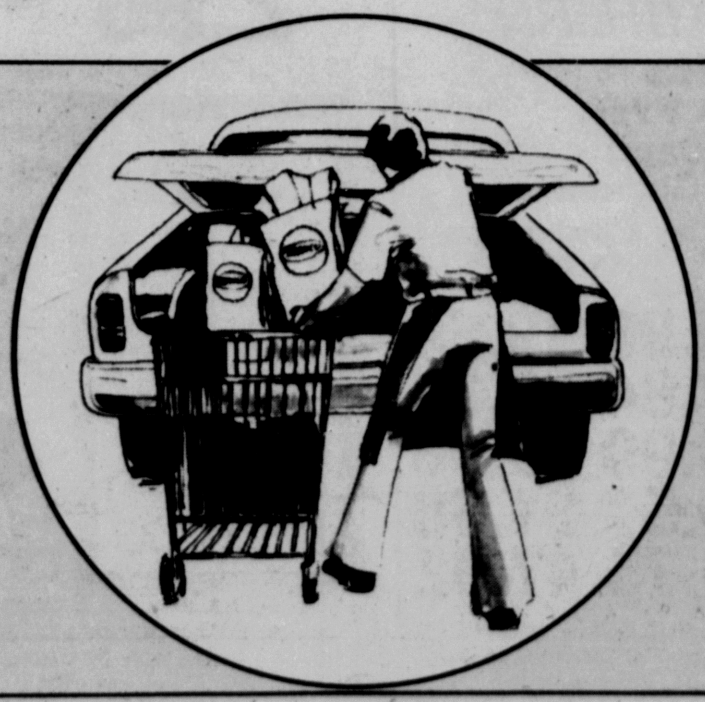

OUR BONDED MEATS ARE GUARANTEED FOR FLAVOR.

Sure, Gemco meats are low in price, but what's equally more important is that our meats are guaranteed for flavor. Each cut has Gemco's own exclusive "Bond" ... your guarantee of tender, lean, juicy cuts or your money back. When you purchase meat from Gemco, you're assured of receiving the best meat value ... and we guarantee that!

OUR PRODUCE IS GUARANTEED FOR FRESHNESS.

Gemco members enjoy only the finest, freshest produce. You know it when you see it in our store ... not picked too early, too ripe, but right at its flavor peak. You can always depend on Gemco for the finest, freshest produce available ... and we guarantee it!

CART TO CAR SERVICE.

Just ask your checker or bag boy for a Cart-to-Car ticket. Your groceries will be tagged and stored in our pick-up area. You can take your receipt and go about your other errands in the store. Have a snack, Buy some jeans. Check the price on that new refrigerator you've been wanting. When you're ready to leave, drive your car to the pick-up area and someone will be waiting to load your groceries into the trunk for you. You return home with errands completed and energy to spare. Proving members enjoy more than just lower prices at Gemco, they enjoy good service, as well.

Gemco's Supermarket Offers You More.

Bonded Meats We sincerely believe that Gemco's Bonded Beef gives our members the best meat values; tender lean and juicy at Gemco's low prices. And we guarantee it in writing on every item in our meat case. If you're not completely satisfied with any item from our meat case, we will refund your money in full.

Selection & Convenience Gemco members enjoy many advantages of grocery shopping over and above most supermarkets. You enjoy the convenience of a complete supermarket stocked with thousands of your favorite national brands. You'll find plenty of checkstands and service for quick, easy checkouts...and you needn't push that cart around either. We'll load your groceries into your car for you, even on the weekends.

Everyday Low Prices We make sure we have lower prices overall, because only Gemco members can get in on them. In addition, you'll find hundreds of Gold Values, items on which we receive temporary promotional allowances from the manufacturers. We pass the extra savings we receive to you as a Gemco Member. Look for the Gold Value tags every time you shop and take advantage of the extra savings.
